LEGEND AND MYTHOLOGY

A-cha'tes (á-kā'tēz). A faithful companion of Æneas.

Ach'er-on (ák'ēr-ōn). The River of Woe in Hades; the Nether World.

A-chil'les (á-kil'ēz). The son of Peleus and Thetis, and hero of Homer's "Iliad." By dipping him in the Styx, his mother made him invulnerable, except in the heel by which she held him. Here he was fatally wounded by an arrow shot by Paris. He became the Greek ideal of youthful strength, beauty, and valor. See HECTOR.

Ac-tæ'on (ák-tē'ōn). Classical. A huntsman who, having surprised Diana bathing, was changed into a stag, and torn to pieces by his own hounds.

Ad-me'tus (ād-mē'tūs). See ALCESTIS.

A-do'nis (á-dō'nīs). Classical. A beautiful youth beloved by Aphrodite (Venus). He was slain by a wild boar. So great was Aphrodite's grief that Adonis was permitted to spend part of each year on earth.

A-dras'tus (á-drās'tūs). Greek. A king of Argos, leader and sole survivor of the Seven against Thebes. The sight of the deaths of his sons-in-law caused him to become permanently pale.

Æ'a-cus (ē-ā-kūs). Greek. The king of Ægina, son of Zeus and Ægina, renowned for piety and justice. He became one of the three judges of Hades.

Æ-e'tes (ē-ē'tēz). Greek. See MEDEA.

Æ'geus (ē'jūs; ē'jē-ūs). Greek. The father of Theseus. In grief at the supposed loss of Theseus, he threw himself into the sea thereafter called Ægean.

Æ'gir (ē'jir; ā'gir). Teutonic. A giant usually regarded as personifying the sea, esp. in its calm aspect. His wife, Ran, is the death deity of the sea.

Æ-gis'thus (ē-jis'thūs). Greek. The paramour of Clytemnestra, whom he aided in the slaying of Agamemnon. Ægisthus was slain by Orestes.

Æ-gyp'tus (ē-jip'tūs). Greek. A king of Libya, who conquered and gave his name to Egypt. See DANAIDES.

Æ-ne'as (ē-ne'ās). The son of Anchises and Aphrodite. Vergil's Æ-ne'id (-id) tells of his wanderings from Troy to Italy. He carried his father on his shoulders from burning Troy.

Æ'o-lus (ē-ō-lūs). Greek. The ruler or god of the winds.

Æs'cu-la'pi-us (ēs-kū-lā'pī-ūs). The Roman god of medicine, the Greek Asclepius (which see).

Æ'sir (ē'sir; ā'sir). The chief gods of the Teutonic pantheon. The original Æsir included Odin, Thor, Tyr, Balder, Loki, and others. See VANIR, LOKI, RAGNAROK.

Æ'son (ē'sūn). See JASON.

Ag'a-mem'non (äg'ā-mēm'nōn). Greek. The son of Atreus, elder brother of Menelaus and leader of the Greeks in the Trojan War. See CLYTEMNESTRA.

Ag'a-nip'pe (äg'ā-nip'ē). A fountain near Mount Helicon, among the ancient Greeks sacred to the Muses.

A'jax (ā'jāks). (1) One of the Greek heroes in the Trojan War. He was of great stature and next to Achilles in prowess and beauty. He killed himself because the armor of Achilles was awarded to Ulysses. (2) The swiftest of the Greeks before Troy, except Achilles;—specifically called Ajax the Less. He violated the shrine of Athena by tearing away Cassandra.

A-lad'din (ā-lād'in). A youth, in the "Arabian Nights," who gets a magic lamp, on rubbing which a jinni appears, who is the slave of the lamp, and exe-

Som'nus (sōm'nūs). The Roman god of sleep. See HYPNOS.

Sten'tor (stēn'tōr). A herald, in Homer's "Iliad," who had a very loud voice.

Styx (stiks). Greek. The chief river of the lower world, which it encircled seven times. Also, the nymph of the river, by whom the most solemn oaths were sworn.

Sym-pleg'a-des (sim-plēg'ā-dēz). Greek. Two rocks at the entrance of the Black Sea, which dashed against each other at intervals, but became fixed when the ship Argo passed safely through between them.

Ta'los (tā'lōs). Greek. (1) An inventor slain by his jealous uncle, Dædalus. (2) A man of brass, made by Hephaestus and given by Zeus to Minos, king of Crete, to guard that island. He bled to death when Medea by magic drew out the nail or plug from his single vein.

Tann'häu-ser (tän'hoi-zēr). A German knight fabled to have entered the enchanted cavern in the Venusberg. He escaped, but despairing of pardon, returned. See VENUSBERG.

Tan'ta-lus (tän'tā-lūs). Greek. A wealthy king, son of Zeus and father of Pelops and Niobe. For serving up Pelops as a meal to the gods (or for revealing divine counsels), Tantalus was punished in the lower world by being placed in water up to his chin with fruit-laden branches over his head. The water and fruit receded whenever he sought to drink or eat.

Tar'ta-rus (tär'tā-rūs). Classical. The infernal regions, described in Homer's "Iliad" as situated as far below Hades as heaven is above the earth, and by later writers as the place of punishment for the spirits of the wicked. In the later poets, also, Hades.

Tel'a-mon (tēl'ā-mōn). Greek. Brother of Peleus and father of Ajax. He was an Argonaut and took part in the Calydonian boar hunt.

Te-lem'a-chus (tē-lēm'ā-kūs). Greek. Son of Ulysses and Penelope. He goes to seek his father, but returns in time to help slay Penelope's suitors.

Tell, William. A legendary Swiss archer who, for refusing to salute the cap which Gessler, the Austrian governor, had set up in the market place, was sentenced to shoot an apple from the head of his own son. This he did. He later shot Gessler, and freed his country from Austria.

Tel'lus (tēl'ūs). Roman. The goddess of the earth, who received and nourished the sown seed.

Terp-sich'o-re (tûrp-sîk'ō-rē). Muse of dancing and choral song.

Te'thys (tē'thîs). Classical. A Titaness, daughter of Uranus, sister of Cronus (Saturn), and wife of Oceanus.

Teu'cer (ti'sēr). Greek. (1) The first king of Troy, whence the Trojans were called Teu'cri (-krî). (2) A son of Telamon, and stepbrother of Ajax. He was the best archer of the Greeks before Troy, and on his return became king of Cyprus and founded Salamis.

Tha-li'a (thā-lî'ā). The Muse of comedy and bucolic poetry.

Than'a-tos (thăn'ā-tōs). Greek. Death as a personification, brother of Hypnos (Sleep) and son of Nyx (Night), and a dweller in the lower world.

The'mis (thē'mîs). Greek. A form of the earth goddess viewed, in a moral aspect, as the law and harmony of physical phenomena. In myth, she is a Titaness, daughter of Uranus, a wife of Zeus. She is also mother of Prometheus.

Ther-si'tes (thēr-sî'tēz). The ugliest and most scurrilous of the Greeks before Troy. He reviled all, but esp. Achilles (who slew him) and Ulysses.

The'seus (thē'sūs; sē-ūs). Greek. Son of Ægeus, king of Athens. He rid Attica of Procrustes and other evildoers; slew the Minotaur, and carried off Minos's daughter Ariadne (see ARIADNE); conquered the Amazons, and married their queen, and after her death espoused Phædra. He was an Argonaut, and took part in the Calydonian boar hunt. See HIPPOLYTUS.

The'tis (thē'tîs). Greek. A Nereid, wife of Peleus and mother of Achilles.

Thor (thōr). Norse. The god of thunder. He was described as a vigorous youth with red hair and beard, riding in a goat-drawn chariot, and armed with a hammer (the thunderbolt), Mjöllnir, that returned after being cast. Thursday is named for him. See ÆSIR.

Thoth (thōth; tōt). Egyptian. The scribe of the gods, measurer of time, inventor of numbers, and god of wisdom and magic. He was figured with the head of an ibis or of a dog.

Thule. See in Vocab.

Thy-es'tes (thî-ēs'tēz). Brother of Æteus. See ATREUS.

Ti-re'si-as (ti-rē'shî-ās; -sî-ās). Greek.

örn, ūp, circūs, menū; fōōd, fōōt; out, oil; chair; go; sing, înk; then, thin; nature, verdure; κ=ch in G. ich, ach; bon; yet; zh=z in azure.

A blind Theban soothsayer to whom Athena gave knowledge of future events and of birds' language.

Ti-ta'ni-a (tī-tā'nī-ā; -tā'nī-ā). Medieval. The wife of Oberon, and queen of the fairies.

Ti-tho'nus (tī-thō'nūs). Greek. Son of Laomedon, king of Troy, the favorite of Eos (Aurora), who prevailed on the gods to grant him immortality, but forgot to ask for him immortal youth. He grew old, and was finally changed by Eos into a grasshopper.

Trip-tol'e-mus (trīp-tōl'ē-mūs). Greek. An ancient Attic hero reputed to have given grain and its culture to man.

Tris'tram (trīs'trām). Also Tris'tam (-tām), Tris'tan (-tān). The hero of a medieval romance. He was sent to Ireland by King Mark of Cornwall, his uncle, to fetch the king's bride, Isolde the beautiful, and on the return voyage he and Isolde partook of a potion which rendered them permanently in love. Tristram was stabbed by King Mark, who surprised him with Isolde. In another version Tristram fled to Brittany, where he married Isolde of the white hand. Being wounded, he sends for Isolde the beautiful to come and cure him. The messenger is to hoist a white sail if Isolde returns with him. He does so; but Tristram's wife tells him the sail is black, and at this he dies.

Tri'ton (trī'tōn). Greek. A sea demigod, the son of Poseidon and Amphitrite, with the lower part of his body fishlike. His special attribute is a conch-shell trumpet, which he blows to raise or calm the waves. Later mythology imagined a multiplicity of Tritons, attendants on the sea gods.

Tro'i-lus (trō'i-lūs). Greek. A son of Priam, killed by Achilles. See CRESSIDA.

Tro'jan War (trō'jān). In Greek legend, the ten years' war waged by the Greeks under Agamemnon against the Trojans, to avenge Helen's abduction. See PARIS, HECTOR, etc.

Tuck (tūk), Friar. A fat and jovial friar, a constant associate of Robin Hood, to whom he acted as father confessor.

Tur'pin, Archbishop (tūr'pīn). A paladin of the Charlemagne romances, who died with Roland at Roncesvalles.

Ty'che (tī'kē). Greek. Goddess of fortune. Each city, esp. in later times, had its own Tyche.

Ty'deus (tī'dūs; tīd'ē-ūs). See SEVEN AGAINST THEBES.

Ty-pho'eus (tī-fō'ūs). Classical. A hundred-headed monster with fearful eyes and voices. He was conquered by Zeus with a thunderbolt and buried in Tartarus under Mt. Etna. Later, he is identified with Typhon.

Ty'phon (tī'fōn). Classical. A monster, the son of Typhoeus and the father of Cerberus, the chimæra, the Sphinx, and other monsters.

Tyr, Tyrr (tēr). A sky and war god of the Teutons. Tuesday is named for him.

U-lys'ses (ū-līs'ēz). Classical. A king of Ithaca, one of the Greek leaders in the Trojan War, famed for his craft, wisdom, and eloquence. Homer's "Odyssey" describes the ten years' wanderings and adventures of Ulysses (Odysseus) in returning to Ithaca. See CALYPSO, CIRCE, PENELOPE, POLYPHEMUS, TELEMACHUS.

U-ra'ni-a (ū-rā'nī-ā). Greek. (1) The Muse of astronomy. (2) An epithet of Aphrodite.

U-ra-nus (ū-rā-nūs). Greek. The personification of Heaven, son or husband of Gæa (Earth) and father of the Titans, Cyclops, Furies, etc. He hated his offspring and confined them in Tartarus, but, at Gæa's instigation, his son Cronus attacked him and dethroned him.

U'ther (ū'thēr). See IGRAINE.

Val-hal'la (vāl'hāl'ā). Norse. The hall of Odin, into which he receives the souls of heroes slain in battle. From its 540 gates each morning the warriors go to fight, and at night they return to feast with the gods, Valkyries being their attendants. See ASGARD.

Val-kyr'ie (vāl-kīr'ī; -kī'ri). Norse. One of the maidens of Odin, awful and beautiful, who hover over the field of battle choosing those to be slain, and conduct the worthy to Valhalla. Cf. BRYNHILD.

Va'na-heim' (vā'nā-hām'). Norse. The home of the Vanir.

Va'nir (vā'nēr). Norse. Three deities, Njorth, Frey, and Freya, who forced the Æsir to allow them to share their sacrifices. They were wealthy gods of trade and commerce, and came from the south. See Æsir.

Ve'nus (vē'nūs). Roman. An ancient Italian goddess of bloom and beauty, protectress of gardens, who became identified with the Greek Aphrodite.

Ve'nus-berg (vē'nūs-bürg; G. vā'nōös-bërk). The Hørselberg, a mountain between Eisenach and Gotha, in Ger-äle, senâte, câre, âm, account, ârm, âsk, sofâ; ēve, êvent, ênd, recênt, makêr; ice, ill; ôld, ôbey, ôrb, ôdd, sôft, cônnect; ūse, ūnite, many, in a cave of which, according to medieval legend, Venus held her court, enticing persons into it, and by music, revelry, and sensuous pleasures keeping them from ever returning. The name was also given to various other mountains. See TANNHÄUSER.

Ver-tum'nus (vē-tūm'nūs). Roman. A god of change, variously interpreted as god of the changing season, of developing vegetation, of trade, as the god capable of self-transformation, etc.

Ves'ta (vēs'tā). Roman. The goddess of the hearth and its fire. Her temple symbolized the hearth of the city, and contained no image of the goddess, but a fire rekindled on the Roman New Year (March 1) by friction of wood and in charge of the vestal virgins. See HESTIA.

Vish'nu (vīsh'nōō). Hindu. The second god of the Hindu trinity, called the preserver.

Viv'i-an (vīv'i-ăn), Viv'i-en (-ăn). In Arthurian legend, Merlin's mistress;—called also Lady of the Lake.

Vö'lund (vū'lōōnd). Norse. An elf king who is a wonderful smith in medieval legends.

Vul'can (vūl'kăn). Roman. The god of fire, esp. in its fearful aspects. Later he was identified with the Greek Hephaestus, and was hence represented as consort of Venus and god of metal working.

Way'land (wā'länd). A supernatural and invisible smith of English legend, identical with the Norse Völund.

Wild Hunt. In European folklore, a nocturnal chase or rushing of a rout of spectral hunters through the wilderness or across the sky. Cf. HOLDA.

Yggdrasill (ig'drā-sīl). Norse. The tree that supports the universe.

Y'mir (ū'mēr; ē'mēr). Norse. The primeval giant from whose body the gods created the world.

Y-wain', Y-waine' (ī-wān'). In Arthurian romance, a Knight of the Round Table. He saves a lion from a dragon, and the grateful animal thereafter attends and assists him.

Ze'thus (zē'thūs). See ANTIOPE.

Zeus (zūs). Greek. The chief of the Olympian gods, son of Cronus and Rhea and husband of Hera, identified by the Romans with Jupiter. The most primitive character of Zeus is probably as god of the elements, as rain, wind, thunder, and lightning; the thunderbolt is his sign, the rainbow, Iris, his messenger. Zeus is also god of moral law and order, protector of suppliants, and punisher of guilt, being then the consort of Themis and the source of divine decrees, speaking through oracles.

ūrn, ūp, circūs, menū; fōōd, fōōt; out, oil; chair; go; sing, īnk; then, thīn; nature, verdure; k=ch in G. ich, ach; bon; yet; zh=z in azure,

ABBREVIATIONS

NOTES: Do not use abbreviations in written or printed matter that consists of formal sentences or connected discourse.

EXCEPTIONS: Mr., Mrs., Messrs., Jr., Sr., when used with proper names; forms like A.B., LL.D., P.M., A.M., B.C., A.D., and a few others of exceptional character are rarely if ever spelled out. Rev., Hon., Dr., Prof., Gov., Gen., while spelled out before surnames, as Governor Robinson, are sometimes used before full names, as Gen. U. S. Grant, though even here the full spelling is preferred in the most formal matter.

Abbreviations are freely used in various headings (as of dates in the superscription of a letter), in tabular statements, commercial accounts, footnotes, references, etc.

Abbreviations of proper names must begin with a capital; others may or may not according to the circumstances of use. The form given in the list is the one commonly used.

An abbreviation with the period at the end, as Dept., Sec., etc., is generally to be used in preference to a contraction using the apostrophe, as Don't Sec'y, etc.

The forms 1st, 2d (or, less properly, 2nd), 3d (less properly, 3rd), 4th, etc., used for first, second, third, fourth etc., as in designating the days of the month, are not, properly speaking, abbreviations, and take no period. After Roman numerals, as I, II, III, etc., used to designate the serial number of a thing, as a page or chapter, some authorities insert the period, others omit it. When used with names, as George V., Leo X., the older and more general usage is to insert the period. Chemical symbols, as Au, Al, etc., though abbreviated forms, are not followed by the period.

The sign & (ampersand) is used in names of business firms or corporations, and often in lists, advertisements, etc.; but not in ordinary reading matter.

PUNCTUATION, USE OF CAPITALS, ETC.

NOTE: It is related of Opie, the painter, that, when asked with what he mixed his colors, he replied, "With brains, Sir." Every writer who offers his productions to the public, if asked how he punctuates, ought to be able to reply, "With common sense."

There is great divergence of opinion among the writers on punctuation, no two authors agreeing on all of the rules. One authority says that in punctuating we must be governed by current usage. But where shall we find the standards of such usage? In a recent issue of one of the leading organs of the printing trade appeared two sentences that are precisely similar in construction, yet one contains a semicolon and the other does not. Here, at least, one might reasonably have expected to find uniformity and consistency. If we turn to the works of standard authors, we find the same indifference to generally accepted rules. Take the common word too. A half dozen works on punctuation inform their readers that the words too, however, therefore, etc., when used as conjunctions, must be placed between commas. Yet in an essay on Prosper Mérimée by Walter Pater, a stylist of acknowledged eminence, the word occurs without any comma whatever, in the following sentence: "In the mental world too a great outlook had lately been cut off."

Where there is so much disagreement in usage and authority, the only thing that remains for a conscientious writer is to punctuate, as suggested above, with common sense; and to this end, perhaps the best single rule is: Insert the proper punctuation mark wherever its omission would create ambiguity, or obscure or alter the author's meaning.

In the superscriptions of letters, in title pages, etc., punctuation at the ends of lines is often omitted altogether.

The punctuation marks are: the period, or full stop (.), the comma (,), the semicolon (;), the colon (:), the exclamation mark (!), the interrogation mark (?), the dash (—), parentheses (()), brackets ([]), quotation marks (" "), and the apostrophe ('). The examples that follow illustrate cases in which the insertion of the respective points is imperative.

THE PERIOD, OR FULL STOP (.)

A period is required at the end of any sentence that is neither interrogative nor exclamatory.

Society is a wave. The wave moves onward, but the water of which it is composed does not. The same particle does not rise from the valley to the ridge. Its unity is only phenomenal. The persons who make up a nation to-day, next year die, and their experience dies with them.

The period should be inserted after an abbreviation; also, before decimals, and, therefore, between dollars and cents expressed in figures.

The MSS. were badly scorched. David Livingstone, LL.D (b. 1813; d. 1873). Lieut. Gen. Wm. Prescott Scott. It measured 16.63 feet. The English pound sterling is worth about $4.86.

Formerly the period was universally used with Roman numerals in such expressions as Maximilian I., George III.,

II. Sam. xxii. 3; but many publishers now omit the period, and, in the division of chapters and verses in Biblical quotations, use the comma. The same lack of uniformity exists with regard to the use of the period after the word cent in per cent, some using the period, others omitting it. Some publishing houses even omit the period after abbreviations of Mister and Doctor; as, Mr Wilkinson, Dr Jacoby.

The terms 1st, 2d, 3d, 12mo, 8vo, etc., do not require the period.

THE COMMA (,)

Of all the punctuation marks the comma is the most often misused. Some writers seem to insert it at random, without any regard to sense. In the following extract from an article by an excellent public speaker five commas have been improperly inserted. They are inclosed in parentheses.

Still, notwithstanding(,) the truth of the above considerations, it must be acknowledged by any one acquainted with Canadian sentiment(,) that the idea of annexation finds little(,) or no favor amongst Canadians. For annexation means the obliteration(,) and extinction of all national life(,) and characteristics.

In reporting a sermon by a certain bishop the reporter wrote:

Paul said the Bishop was ready to preach to those who were at Rome.

Paul did not say anything of the kind. The reporter omitted two very important commas from the sentence, which should have read:

Paul, said the Bishop, was ready to preach to those who were at Rome.

The comma must be used both before and after a word or a phrase that interrupts the sequence of a simple sentence.

This plan, however, had not occurred to him. His true ambition, and a lofty one it must be counted, was to affect the course of events in his time by affecting the course of thought.

Use a comma between words, phrases, etc., that are in the same construction and not connected by a conjunction expressed or implied.

Joy, sorrow, care, hope, are the common heritage.

Early to bed, early to rise, make a man healthy and wealthy and wise.

Where there are two adjectives that qualify the same noun and there is no danger of ambiguity, the comma may be omitted.

A sturdy young fellow. A cold clear morning.

Use a comma before a conjunction connecting the last two words in a series of three or more.

The estate was left in equal shares to John, Robert, and William.

The comma is not used between a noun and its appositive when so closely connected as to form one idea.

My partner Johnson is in Europe.

Her daughter Agnes is at Vassar.

Use a comma to indicate ellipsis of words that are common to two or more parts of a sentence, but are expressed only in one part.

Reading maketh a full man; conference, a ready man; and writing, an exact man.

Use the comma to mark off words placed, as for clearness or emphasis, out of their natural position, if the expression would be awkward or the construction forced or ambiguous without the comma.

To the wise and upright, old age bring many joys.

Exasperated by the continual bickerings, he resigned the secretaryship.

Use the comma to set off words, phrases, and clauses that are independent, parenthetical, or appositional.

Hail, Cæsar

Practice, however, perfected his skill.

And he, their prince, shall rank among my peers.

Use a comma after the formal closing phrase of a letter.

Yours truly, Respectfully yours, Yours very sincerely, Your loving son,

Use a comma before a short quotation that is not made a separate paragraph; also, after a direct quotation that is the subject or object of a following verb.

As Prior says, "Virtue is its own reward."

"The train is coming," said his companion.

Use a comma to separate repeated words in the same construction in a clause or sentence.

I wait, wait, hoping against hope.

Use the comma to separate two sets of figures.

In the year 1862, 62 children in the village died of diphtheria.

February 1, 1897.

THE SEMICOLON (;)

The semicolon should be used to separate phrases and clauses containing commas.

The seasons come and go, and the years pass on; but love abides.

There is a continual warfare between evil and good in the world; but good is in the ascendant, and must be victorious at last.

The yield was: 1889, 660 bbls.; 1899, 886 bbls.

The semicolon should be used in Biblical references to separate passages containing chapter numbers.

Rev. xxi.1; xxii.5.

THE COLON (:)

The colon should be used after the salutatory phrase in a letter or in an address.

Dear Sir: Gentlemen: My dear Sir: My Lord Archbishop:
Ladies and Gentlemen:

The colon should generally be used to introduce a formal quotation. A comma may be used to introduce a short quotation unless the quotation is made a separate paragraph.

Literally translated, the words of the song were these: "The poor white man, faint and weary, came and sat under our tree."

There is much truth in the proverb, "Without pains, no gains."

The colon should be used after a clause or sentence introducing a series of particulars.

The results of the mission so far are: Natives baptized, 126; regular communicants, 101; mission schools, 3; native teachers, 8; native workers other than teachers, 42; scholars, 206.

THE EXCLAMATION MARK (!)

The exclamation mark should be used after ejaculations, after commands or any other expressions of an exclamatory nature, and at the end of a sentence beginning with an interjection.

Pshaw! Go, go! How beautiful! Alas, that I should live to see this day! Oh that those lips had language!

In clauses introduced by the interjection Oh, O, the exclamation mark is not used immediately after the interjection, but at the end of the clause. When used in direct address, Oh should be separated by a comma from the name of that which is addressed.

O for the wings, for the wings of a dove!
Oh, mother! Oh, Janice!

THE INTERROGATION MARK (?)

The interrogation mark should be used at the end of a direct question.

Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth?

Is it well to wish thee happy?

The interrogation mark is not used when the expression denoting inquiry is put in any other form than that of a direct question.

I was asked if I would write a short account of it.

This mark is used, also, inclosed in parentheses, to express doubt.

He offered me a bag of real (?) alligator skin.

THE DASH (—)

The dash is used to mark a suspension of the sense, a faltering in speech, a sudden change in the construction, or an unexpected turn of the thought. It is used, also, to secure rhetorical emphasis, to connect dates, and to indicate the omission of letters.

If you will listen, I will explain—but perhaps you do not care to hear.

A self-hunting dog is—a canine—that is—a dog of peculiar traits.

I saw her—my pulse even now stops at the remembrance—in the direct path of the runaway animal.

He sometimes counsel takes—and sometimes snuff.

I will never—never, I say—agree to this iniquitous proposal.

During the decade 1870—1880.

Secretary B—.

PARENTHESES (())

Parentheses, or marks of parenthesis, are used to set off a clause, translation, or the like, inserted in a sentence which is independent of the clause in construction and in sense.

Know, then, this truth (enough for man to know):

Virtue alone is happiness below.

We were now nearing our destination (we had been five days on the river), and our spirits rose.

Nil Desperandum (Never despair)!

BRACKETS ([])

Brackets should be used to inclose sentences, phrases, or words inserted in, or appended to, quotations.

He is just as cheerful as when you was [were] here.

The city at this time [early in the eighteenth century] had but 4,000 inhabitants.

QUOTATION MARKS (" ")

Quotation marks consist of two inverted commas at the beginning and two apostrophes at the end of the quoted word or words. When a quotation has within it another quotation, the latter is preceded by a single inverted comma, and followed by a single apostrophe.

"When I am dead," said one of the keenest of modern minds, one of the greatest of modern poets, "lay a sword on my coffin, for I was a soldier in the war for the liberation of humanity."

The witness said: "I distinctly heard him say, 'Don't be late'; and then I heard the door close."

Commas and periods should be placed within the closing quotation marks; semicolons and colons, without. The interrogation and exclamation points should be placed within the quotation marks when part of the quotation; otherwise, outside.

THE APOSTROPHE (')

The apostrophe is used to denote the omission of a letter or letters, most frequently in poetry and in colloquial speech.

Don't. I've. He's. Who'd. 'Tis. 'Gainst.
O'er. You'll. I'd.

Use the apostrophe before an added s to form the possessive of most singular nouns and for plural nouns not ending in s.

Dog's. James's. Men's. Children's.

Use the apostrophe without an added s to form the possessive of singular nouns ending in a sibilant, where the repeated sibilant would be disagreeable to the eye or ear, as in words of two or more syllables, with the last syllable unaccented.

Moses'. Princess'. Conscience'. Jeremias'.
But, Hortense's, Boniface's.

Use the apostrophe followed by s to make one form of the plurals of letters, figures, signs, or of a word mentioned without regard to its meaning.

Sometimes the apostrophe is omitted.

A's. B's.

A million is written by 1 followed by six 0's.
The why's and wherefore's of the case.

THE USE OF CAPITALS

Capitalize the first word of a sentence and the first word of a complete line of poetry.

We eat of the bread which grows in the field.
We live by the air which blows around us.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Capitalize the first word after a colon when what precedes is introductory to a complete passage or a sentence.

Finally, I wish to say this: We shall get better results from a small committee than from a large one.

As the old proverb has it: "The more haste, the less speed."

Capitalize proper nouns and derivatives from them.

George, Elizabeth, Paul; France, Spain; Bible, Talmud, Koran.

Georgian, Elizabethan, Pauline; French, Spanish; Biblical, Talmudic, Koranic.

Do not capitalize proper nouns or derivatives from them when there is no longer any conscious association with the proper name, as in the case of words used to describe common articles of merchandise or common operations.

Fine china (ware), cashmere (material), champagne (wine), morocco (leather), derby (a hat), boycott, macadamized, japanned, italicize.

Capitalize epithets used as parts of, or as substitutes for, proper names.

Alexander the Great. Charles the Bold.
Richard the Lion-hearted. Cœur de Lion.

Capitalize all names or appellations of God, of Jesus Christ, and of the Virgin Mary, and pronouns or pronominal adjectives referring to God or Jesus Christ when used in direct address or when emphatic.

In the Bible and in the Book of Common Prayer, such pronouns and pronominal adjectives are not capitalized.

God, Lord, Jehovah; the Father, the Son, the Holy Ghost; the Messiah, the Redeemer, the Savior; the Supreme Being, the Almighty, the Eternal; the Virgin Mary, the Blessed Virgin, St. Mary the Virgin.

Trust in the Lord and in His tender mercy, and He will bring it to pass. O Lord! Thou that watchest o'er Thy people.

Capitalize names of the divisions, books, and versions of the Bible, titles of parables, etc.

Old Testament (abbreviated, O. T.), New Testament (N. T.); the Book of Job, the Acts of the Apostles; Authorized Version (A. V.), Revised Version (R. V.), the parable of the Sower, the Lord's Supper, the Lord's Prayer.

Capitalize the word Church when it designates a specific body of Christian believers holding the same creed and acknowledging the same ecclesiastical authority, or when it forms part of the name of a particular edifice; also, the names of religious denominations and monastic orders and their members.

The Protestant Episcopal Church, the Church of Rome, High Church, Low Church; Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, St. James's Church; Baptist, Congregationalist, the Plymouth Brethren; the Benedictine order, Black Friar, Carmelite.

Capitalize names of creeds and confessions of faith.

The Apostles' Creed, the Nicene Creed, the Creed of Chalcedon; the Augsburg Confession.

Capitalize names of congresses, councils, expositions, etc.

The First Congress of Races, the Council of Nicea, Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Capitalize names of holy days and festivals, the months, and the days of the week

Christmas, Easter, Passover, Feast of Tabernacles, Good Friday; Arbor Day, Labor Day, New Year's Day, the Fourth of July; January, February; Sunday, Saturday.

Capitalize the names of geological ages and strata, and the generally accepted names of historical epochs, periods, events, and documents.

The Age of Fishes, the Upper Silurian; the Middle Ages, the Revival of Learning, the Reformation, the Inquisition, the Commonwealth (Cromwell's), the American Revolution, the Paris Commune; the Declaration of Independence.

Capitalize names of genera, but not of species, in binomial scientific names in zoölogy and botany.

The buttercup (Ranunculus acris), the harp seal (Phoca grænländica).

Capitalize New Latin technical names of classes, families, etc., in botany and zoölogy, but not adjectives and English nouns derived from them.

Hexapoda, hexapod, Gastropoda, gastropod, gastropodan.

Capitalize the names of the stars, constellations, etc.

The North Star, the Milky Way, the Dipper, Charles's Wain, the Southern Cross.

Capitalize generic terms for political divisions when used as part of the names of specific political or governmental organizations or territories.

Holy Roman Empire, United Kingdom, French Republic, Northwest Territory, Larkins Township.

Capitalize the names of eras and abbreviations of such names; also, various phrases conventionally used in giving dates, and the abbreviations of the phrases.

Christian Era, Kali Yuga; Anno Domini (A. D.), Common Era (C. E.); Anno Mundi (A. M.), Before Christ (B. C.).

Capitalize the names of political parties, names of legislatures and other governmental bodies, and of offices, civil and military titles when used specifically, and all titles of honor, nobility, and respect.

The Democratic party, the Republicans; but, a democratic prince, a republican form of government; Administration, Federal, Constitution, when referring to the United States Government; President Wilson, King George, Admiral Dewey, General Grant, the Governor; Her Majesty, His Excellency, the Duke of Cornwall, Deacon Rogers, Father William; Congress, the Senate, the House of Representatives.

Capitalize such adjectives as Presidential, Senatorial, Congressional, Parliamentary, etc., when referring to a specific President, etc.

Capitalize, when personified, the names of the seasons and of abstract ideas or objects.

Where Spring her verdant mantle cast.

Of old sat Freedom on the heights.

Capitalize names of the points of the compass, when used to designate definite geographical portions of the United States or of other countries, and names of divisions of the world or of a country; also, nouns or adjectives derived therefrom.

The South, the West, the Orient, New England, the Old World; Southerner, Oriental, New Englander.

When used to denote direction only, terms denoting points of the compass should not be capitalized.

The torrent took a course due east.

Capitalize generic terms that form a part of specific geographical names, also the names of counties, avenues, streets, etc.

Pacific Ocean, Red Sea, Gulf of Mexico, Straits of Gibraltar, Missouri River, Rocky Mountains, Pike's Peak, Death Valley, Lake Superior; County Mayo, Cook County, Lexington Avenue, Court Square, Park Street; Philippine Islands, Long Island Sound.

The island of Madagascar, the river Rhine, the desert of Sahara.

Capitalize state, territory, dominion, etc., when denoting specific political divisions or entities.

The State of Ohio, the Territory of Hawaii; the Dominion Parliament.

Capitalize names of organizations and institutions, academic degrees, titles of newspapers, books, etc.

The Gas Fitters' Union, Willesden Country Club; Bachelor of Science (B. Sc.), Doctor of Laws (LL. D.); the New York Sun; Scott's The Pirate, Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew.

Capitalize the salutatory phrase of a letter or an address.

When the word dear does not begin the phrase, it is usually spelled with a small letter.

Dear Mother: My dear Mr. Smith: My Lord Duke:

ELLIPSES

Ellipses, or omissions, of letters, words, or sentences, are indicated by the apostrophe or the dash, or by a series of periods or of asterisks (stars). The dash is used also to denote the omission of figures. To indicate the omission of one or more complete lines of poetry, a full line of periods or stars is used. An ellipsis should be regarded as a part of the citation, and, consequently, should be inclosed in the quotation marks.

Five o'clock. O'Connor. Mrs. B—n, B . . . n, or B * * * n (for Mrs. Brown).

The expense . . . of repairing the dam will be enormous. The years 1807—17.

References from the text of a work to notes at the foot of a page are indicated by superior figures, by superior letters, or by the following signs in the order given: the asterisk, or star (*), the obelisk, or dagger (†), the double dagger (‡), the section (§), parallels (||), and the paragraph mark (¶).

THE USE OF ITALIC LETTERS

Italicize words to which it is desired to give emphasis.

This is not real philanthropy, but merely the outward show of it.

Italicize foreign words and phrases used in an English text.

Ab origiñ; ancien régime; con amore; garçon; bona fides; in propria persona; nolens volens. As the French have it, Chacun à son goût.

Italicize the New Latin scientific names of plants or animals, especially when included parenthetically apart from the context.

The goldenseal (Hydrastis canadensis). The quahog, Venus mercenaria, has a thick shell.

PREPARATION OF COPY FOR THE PRESS

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS

1. Copy should be made on single sheets of paper of a uniform size, one side only being used. The paper should not be too large. Sheets about 8 x 10 inches are the most convenient. The sheets should be numbered. Interlineations should be avoided.

2. Copy should be easily legible, preferably typewritten, but if not, then clearly written.

3. Copy should be revised by the proofreader before going to the compositor. The dimensions of the page, size and style of types, whether the matter is to be leaded or set solid, the various divisions (as chapters, etc.) and subdivisions, headlines, notes, etc. should all be determined before the setting of type begins.

4. Copy should embody the final ideas of the author. Allowance must be made, for some changes, but, to avoid expense, the copy as sent to the compositor should be as complete and perfect as possible. Changes in matter already set are more costly than the original setting. Compositor and proof reader are bound to "follow copy" literally, except in the case of obvious mistakes in punctuation or spelling, which they correct, calling attention to all such changes.

5. Abbreviations should be used only for words usually so written. See p. 924.

6. Verify all proper names, technical and scientific words, references, quotations, and figures.

7. Spelling should be uniform. For words that have two or more accepted spellings, one form should be adopted and adhered to throughout. The spellings in this Dictionary are those most generally accepted.

8. Capital letters should be used uniformly. A word that may be written with either a capital or a small letter should not be written now one way and now the other. Whether a word is to be begun with a capital or a small letter is shown by the vocabulary entry in this Dictionary. For rules, see p. 958.

9. Punctuation should be as uniform as possible. Unfortunately there is not only difference of opinion in regard to punctuation, but it is difficult for even the same writer to be always consistent in this matter. For rules, see p. 955.

10. Paragraphing should be indicated on the copy, not left to the printer or proof reader.

11. Directions to the press should be inclosed in circles or curved lines, to avoid confusion with corrections, etc.

TECHNICAL TERMS

Body.—The main part of a type below the raised character. According to their size, as measured at right angles to the printed lines, type bodies are called pica, long primer, etc.

Boldface.—Type having a conspicuous or heavy face.

Capitals.—The largest letters of a font. They vary in size, according to the font. Abbr., caps.

(960)

Displayed matter.—Matter, as headings, titles, etc., made prominent by being set in relatively large type or with varying lengths of line, etc.

Duodecimo.—A size of book, or page, got by folding each sheet into 12 leaves, commonly about 5 x 7½ inches. Called also twelvemo, and often written 12mo, or 12°. Duodecimo, octavo, quarto, etc. do not now indicate fixed dimensions, as sheets of book paper vary in size from about 22 x 28 inches to 36 x 48 inches.

Electrotype.—A facsimile plate for printing, made from type, woodcuts, etc. by depositing a thin plate of copper in a mold by an electroplating process, and backing this with type metal.

Em.—The square of the body of a type of any size; that is, a square whose side is the greatest dimension of the body of the type. The em is the unit in calculating the amount of type in printed work, or that set by a compositor.

Folio.—A book (largest size) made of sheets each folded once (four pages to the sheet). Also, the page number.

Font.—A complete assortment of any particular size and style of type.

Form.—Set-up matter from which an impression is to be made, secured in a chase, or frame.

Half title.—The name alone of a book, placed on a separate page or at the head of the first page of text; also, any similar sectional title.

Indention.—The setting-in of a line from the margin. In hanging indention, the first line begins at the margin, the other lines are set in.

Justify.—To space out lines of type, so that they are not too long nor too short.

Leaders (lēd'ērz).—Dots or dashes that lead the eye, as from the end of a partly filled line to the figures in an index, etc.

Leads (lēdz).—Strips of metal of various thicknesses to separate lines of type. Matter set without leads is solid.

Lower case.—The printer's case containing small letters, etc. Hence, lower-case (l. c.) letters are the small letters.

Making-up.—Preparing set-up matter in regular order for printing.

Octavo.—A book, etc., of 8 leaves or 16 pages to a sheet. Abbr., 8vo, or 8°. See DUODECIMO.

Overrun.—To shift letters or words from one line into another, or a line or lines from one column or page to another.

Pi.—Type confusedly mixed or disarranged.—*pi*ed, p. a.

Plate.—An electrotype or stereotype of matter to be printed from.

Proof.—An impression of composed matter, taken to test its correctness.—Office proof is the first taken (pulled or drawn). It is read and corrected at the press before the author's proof is sent out.—Author's proof is taken after the corrections of the office proof are made. It is sent, with the MS., to the author.—Galley proof is taken from the type in the galley (printer's metal frame with flanges on three sides). In extended work, it is usually taken on long sheets of paper. The first author's proof is generally galley proof.—Revised or second proof is taken after the corrections indicated in the first author's proof have been made.—Foundry proof is taken after the corrections on the last author's proof have been made, and before the forms are cast.—Plate proof is taken after the plates have been cast. Changes in the plates are very expensive.—Foul, or dirty, proof contains more errors than ordinary.

Quad (quadrat).—A short blank piece of metal, lower than the type, to fill blank spaces, etc.—Em quad.—A quad the size of an "em."

Quarto.—A size of a book, etc., having 4 leaves or 8 pages to a sheet. Abbr., 4to or 4°. See DUODECIMO.

Register.—The exact correspondence in position of pages, columns, or lines on the opposite or reverse sides of the sheet.

Signature.—A figure or letter placed at the bottom of the first page of each sheet in a volume, to indicate the order in the completed book. Each sheet has a different signature. Also, the sheet bearing such figure or letter.

Slug.—A thick piece of type metal for spacing out, etc.

Small capitals.—Letters of the same form as capitals, but about two-thirds the size. Abbr., s. c. or sm. caps.

Stereotype.—A plate made by casting type metal in a mold taken in plaster of Paris, paper pulp, etc., from some printing surface (as a page of type).

Upper case.—The upper of a compositor's two cases of type. It contains the capitals, small capitals, and certain marks.

MAKE-UP OF A BOOK

The following is the order commonly observed in the make-up of a book. 1. Half title (name alone) and blank page. 2. Full title and blank page or copy-right notice. 3. Dedication and blank page. 4. Preface or Introduction. 5. Table of Contents. 6. List of Illustrations. 7. Text. 8. Appendix. 9. Glossary. 10. Bibliography. 11. Index.

In a printed work the even pages or folios (2, 4, 6, etc.) are the left-hand ones, the odd pages are the right-hand ones.

FORMS OF ADDRESS

NOTE.—Abbreviations may be used on the envelope, but in the best usage are not employed in the letter itself

WEBSTERIAN RULES FOR SPELLING CERTAIN WORDS

FINAL CONSONANTS

1. The letters f, l, and s at the end of monosyllables, and standing immediately after single vowels, are generally doubled; as in staff, cliff, doff, puff, all, bell, hill, toll, null, grass, press, hiss, moss, truss. EXCEPTIONS: Clef, if, of, pal, as, gas, yes, his, this, pus, plus, bus (for omnibus), thus, and us. The s is not doubled when (as in o's, spade's, tones, loves, has, is, was, etc.) it is used to form the possessive case or the plural of a noun, or the third person singular of a verb.

2. C, h, j, k, q, v, w, and y are never doubled when final. B, d, g, m, n, p, r, t, and z, when final, are doubled in only a few words, the most important being ebb, add, odd, egg, Ann, inn, Finn, Lapp, err, shirr, butt, fizz, frizz, buzz, fuzz.

3. Monosyllables ending with the sound of k, and having c following the vowel, usually have k added after the c; as in black, fleck, click, knock, and buck. EXCEPTIONS: Lac, sac, roc, arc.

4. Words of more than one syllable, ending with the sound of k preceded by i or ia are now written -ic or -iac, a former final k having been dropped; as, maniac, elegiac, zodiac, cubic, music, public. EXCEPTIONS: Derrick, bailiwick, maverick. Words of more than one syllable ending with the sound of k, preceded by other vowels than i or ia, commonly end in ck; as, arrack, barrack, hammock, hillock, wedlock. EXCEPTIONS: Almanac, sandarac, limbec, rebec, xebec, manioc, havoc.

FORMATION OF DERIVATIVES

5. Words ending in c have a k inserted when adding a termination beginning with e, i, or y, so that the c shall not be pronounced like s: as, colic, colicky; traffic, trafficked, trafficking, trafficker; physic, physicked, physicking; zinc, zincked, zincking, zincky.

6. Final consonant doubled. Words accented on the last syllable (including words of one syllable) if they end in a single consonant (except h or x) preceded by a single vowel, double the consonant before a suffix beginning with a vowel: as, clan, clan'nish; plan, planned, plan'ning, plan'ner; bag, bag'gage; hot, hot'ter, hot'test; wit, wit'ty; cabal', cabal'ler; abet', abet'ted, abet'ting, abet'tor; begin', begin'ning, begin'ner; infer', inferred', infer'ring. The consonant is doubled to preserve the short sound of the vowel. Thus, planned, hottest, and abetted, would naturally be pronounced planed, hostest, and abeted, if the consonant were not doubled. EXCEPTIONS: Gaseous, inferable, transferable, and derivatives in which the accent of the primitive is thrown back upon another syllable: as, prefer', pref'erence, refer', ref'erence, defer', def'erence, etc.

7. Final consonant not doubled. Words accented on any syllable except the last, words ending in more than one consonant, and words ending in a single consonant preceded by more than one vowel, do not double the final consonant before a suffix beginning with a vowel: as, daub, daubed, daub'er; need, need'y; brief, brief'er, brief'est; trav'ail, trav'ailed, trav'ailing; rev'el, rev'eled, rev'eling; trav'el, trav'eling, trav'eler; prof'it, prof'ited; act, acted, ac'tor; perform', perform'er; stand, stand'ing. EXCEPTIONS: In humbog and a few other words ending in g, the g is doubled (humbugged, humbugging) before e or i, so that the g shall not be pronounced like j. The derivatives of kidnap are preferably spelled with one p, although the forms kidnapper, kidnapping, kidnapped are not uncommon. The form woolen, with one l, is usual in the United States, but woollen, with two l's, is preferred in British usage.

8. Double consonant retained. Words ending in a double consonant commonly retain both consonants when adding suffixes: as, ebb, ebbing; odd, oddly; stiff, stiffness; skill, skillful, skillfulness; will, willful, willfulness; dull, dullness; full, fullness. So also the double l is retained in the words installment, intrallment, thralldom, and enrollment (from install, intrall, thrall, and enroll), in order to prevent a false pronunciation if spelled with one l. EXCEPTIONS: Illy; dully; fully.

9. Silent e retained. Words ending with silent e generally retain this e before suffixes beginning with a consonant: as, pale, paleness; hate, hateful; incite, incitement; chaste, chastely, chasteness; move, movement; and the derivatives and compounds of these words. EXCEPTIONS: Wholly, nursling, abridgment, acknowledgment, lodgment, judgment, and, often, certain words (as, due, duly; argue, argument; true, truly; awe, awful) in which the final e of the primitive is preceded by another vowel.

10. Silent e omitted. Words ending with silent e generally drop the e before suffixes beginning with a vowel: as, bride, bridal; guide, guidance; plume, plumage; use, usable, usage; grieve, grievance; come, coming; shape, shaping; move, movable; sale, salable; fleece, fleecey; force, forcible; true, truism. EXCEPTIONS: The e is retained in hoeing, shoeing, and toeing (from hoe, shoe, and toe), to guard against mispronunciation, but is generally excluded from shoer. It is retained in dyeing, singeing, swingeing, tingeing from dye, singe, swinge, tinge), to distinguish them from dying, singing, springing, swinging, tinging (from die, sing, spring, swing, ting). The word mileage, as commonly written, does not omit the e. Words ending in ce or ge retain the e before suffixes beginning with a or o, so that the c or g shall not be pronounced with the "hard" sound: as, peace, peaceable; notice, noticeable; manage, manageable; change, changeable; advantage, advantageous; outrage, outrageous. Mortgagor, pronounced mor'ga-jor', from mortgage, and pledgor, pronounced plej-or', from pledge, are the forms preferred in usage. In derivatives in -able, as usable, useable, salable, saleable, etc., usage is divided and often inconsistent.

11. Ending -ing added to ie. Words ending in ie usually drop the e and change i to y when adding ing, so as to prevent two i's from coming together: as, die, dying; hie, hying; lie, lying; tie, tying; vie, vying.

12. y preceded by a consonant. Words ending in y preceded by a consonant usually change y to i before any suffix except one beginning with i: as, icy, iciest; icily; mercy, merciless; tidy, tidiness; modify, modifies; foggy, fogginess; earthy, earthiness; pity, pitiful.

The derivatives of adjectives of one syllable usually retain the y: as, shy, shyness; sly, slyest; dry, dryly; spry, spryer, spryest; wry, wryness. But drier and driest, from dry, are commonly written with i instead of y; and drily, shily, slily, are not uncommon. Before -ship and -like, as secretaryship, suretyship, ladyship, citylike, countrylike, and in derivatives formed from baby and lady, the y is retained. The y also is retained in the possessive case of nouns, when formed by adding s with the apostrophe; as, country's, everybody's.

13. y preceded by a vowel. Words ending in y preceded by a vowel generally retain the y unchanged before all suffixes: as, gay, gayety, gayly; play, player, plays; sway, swayed; obey, obeying; joy, joyful; enjoy, enjoyed; buy, buying; gluey, glueyness. EXCEPTIONS: Daily, laid, paid, said, saith, slain, and staid (from day, lay, pay, say, slay, and stay), with their compounds; dewiness.

14. Adding a vowel to a vowel ending. Words ending with a vowel sound generally retain the letter or letters representing such sound before a suffix beginning with a vowel: as, huzza, huzzaed; agree, agreeable, agreeing; weigh, weighing; dough, doughy; echo, echoed; woo, wooe; bow, bowed; beau, beaush. Sometimes cooes, wooes (from the verbs coo, woo) are found; but coos, woos, like taboos, shampoos, are preferable. Cooed and wooded are proper, like other participles in -ed.

PLURALS

For irregular plurals, as of man, foot, brother, ox, deer, and for Latin or other foreign plurals, as of datum, genus, index, crisis, consult the individual words in the Vocabulary.

15. The plural of English nouns regularly ends in s, or, in certain classes of words, in es.

When the singular ends in a sound with which s can unite and be pronounced without forming a separate syllable, s only is added in forming the plural: as, bay, bays; shah, shahs; sea, seas; tree, trees; pie, pies; Hindu, Hindus; woe, woes; canto, cantos; virtue, virtues; purlieu, purlieus; claw, claws; cab, cabs; panic, panics; bead, beads; chief, chiefs; bag, bags; path, paths; ache, aches; plague, plagues; lock, locks; bell, bells; gem, gems; fan, fans; cup, cups; ear, ears; act, acts. Singulars ending in *o generally add s only to form their plurals. Certain words (as, echo, echoes; cargo, cargoes; embargo, embargoes; motto, motatoes; potato, potatoes, etc.) ending in o preceded by a consonant add es to form their plurals. Other nouns ending in o preceded by a consonant generally form their plurals regularly, though usage differs with regard to some of them. As to nouns ending in i usage differs, though, as a rule, their plurals are preferably written with the termination is.

When the singular ends in a sound (as that of ch in much, sh, j, s, x, or z) with which s cannot unite in pronunciation, but must form a separate syllable, e is inserted before the s in forming the plural, unless the word ends with silent e, which then forms a separate syllable with the s: as, church, churches; rush, rushes; age, ages; edge, edges; lace, laces; gas, gases; class, classes; alias, aliases; marquis, marquises; case, cases; loss, losses; box, boxes; maze, mazes.

16. Singulars ending in y preceded by a consonant form their plurals by adding es and changing y into i: as, mercy, mercies; lady, ladies; sky, skies; army, armies; pity, pities; Mary, Maries (sometimes Marys). This rule includes words ending in quy, in which u is, strictly, a consonant; as, colloquy, colloquies.

Singulars ending in y preceded by a vowel (except u having the power of w), form their plurals by adding s only: as, day, days; key, keys; money, moneys; monkey, monkeys; attorney, attorneys; alloy, alloys; guy, guys.

17. The plurals of a few nouns ending in f or fe are irregularly formed by changing f or fe into ves. The principal examples are: life, lives; knife, knives; wife, wives; leaf, leaves; sheaf, sheaves; loaf, loaves; beef, beefes; thief, thieves; calf, calves; half, halves; elf, elves; shelf, shelves; self, selves; wolf, wolves. SECESTAFF, WHARF, SCARF, HOOF, in the Vocabulary. The plurals of other nouns ending in f, fe, or ff, are formed regularly by the addition of s only.

18. Plural of a letter, figure, sign, etc. To express the plural of a letter, a figure, or any character or sign, or of a word mentioned without regard to its meaning, the letter s, generally preceded by the apostrophe, is appended, as in the phrases, "The two l's in all;" "The two O's in 400;" "Two s* in Orion;" "He uses too many it's." Some, however, omit the apostrophe in such cases.

MISCELLANEOUS RULES

19. -able or -ible. See -ABLE, in the Vocabulary.

20. -er or -re. There is a class of words ending in -er, some of which are written by many authors with the termination -re; as, center, meter, theater, etc., often written centre, metre, theatre, etc. Acre, chancre, lucre, nacre, massacre, and ogre retain the termination -re, in order to preserve the "hard" sound of the c and g.

21. -ize or -ise. Certain words ending, as pronounced, with the sound of long i, followed by z, are written with either -ize or -ise: as, criticize or criticise; civilize or civilise; naturalize or naturalise; patronize or patronise. But the spelling in -ise for this class being now less often used, only the form in -ize is given in this book. Words still retaining the spelling -ise are: those derived from the French verb prendre (participle pris or prise), as apprise, comprise, emprise, enterprise, surprise; and, also, advertise, advise, affranchise, arise, chastise, circumcise, compromise, demise, despise, devise, disenfranchise, disfranchise, disguise, enfranchise, exercise, exorcise, franchise, merchandise, premise, revise, supervise, surmise.

22. mold or mould. The words mold and molt, and their compounds and derivatives, are written in this Dictionary with o instead of ou, in analogy with the words bold, bolt, coll, gold, etc., from which the u has been dropped. Many authors, however, write these words mould and moult, and their derivatives in like manner.

23. -or or -our. There is a numerous class of words almost universally written in the United States with the termination -or, many of which are also written, esp. in England, with the termination -our; as, candor, favor, honor, labor, rumor, vigor. English usage, however, is not uniform with respect to these words, many of them being written with -or in English books.

RULES OF THE SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD

In the early periods of English the spelling was essentially phonetic, that is, the written form of a word indicated fairly well its pronunciation. In modern English, however, the spelling of many words is far from phonetic. This has resulted from various causes. The spoken form of language is always more changeable than the written form, and changes in pronunciation are only slowly reflected in the spelling. Moreover, since the invention of printing, English spelling has tended to become more and more conventional and fixed, while changes in pronunciation have continued. One has only to call to mind such common words as busy, bosom, colonel, woman, bough, enough, tough, night, to realize how unphonetic their spelling is with reference to their present pronunciation.

Many unorganized plans for the reformation of English spelling have been proposed in the past. Within recent years several organized attempts at a more or less thorough revision of our spelling have been made. The Simplified Spelling Board (1 Madison Ave., N. Y. City) organized in 1906, aims at the gradual simplification of English spelling by the reduction to uniformity of classes of words, and the elimination of sporadic anomalies.

The following are the rules (or recommendations), with examples, already adopted by the Simplified Spelling Board:

1. ae, æ, or e, not final. Ex.: anæsthetic, anæsthetic, anæsthetic. RULE: Choose e. Ex.: Anesthetic, chimera, era, esthetic, ether, medieval, paleontology, etc.

2. -bt, with b silent. Ex.: Debt, debtor, doubt, etc. RULE: Omit b. Ex.: Det, dettor, dout, indetted, redout, redouted, redoutable.

3. Ch pronounced C (chiefly in words of Greek origin). Ex.: Chameleon, chaos, chasm, chloride, cholera, chord, chorus, chrome, archaic, echo, etc. RULE: Drop h. Ex.: Cameleon, caos, character, casm, clorid, clorin, colera, cord (in music), corus, cromatic, crome, cromo, cronic, cronicle, cronology, arcaic, arcangel, conc, distic, eco, epoc, escatology, hemistic, meccanic, melancoly, monarc, monocrome, monostic, saccarin, scolar, scolastic, scolium, scool, stomac, stricnin, syncronus, tecnic, tecnology, trocaic, etc.

But retain, for the present, ch before e, i, and y, where by a conventional assumption, c suggests the sound of s. Ex.: Chemic, chemist, chemistry, chirography, chyle, alchemy, archeology, architect, archives, bronchial, catechism, lichen, (968) monarchy, orchestra, pachyderm, scheme, trochee, etc.

4. -ck, pronounced c, after an unstressed vowel, in words of two or more syllables. Ex.: Bannock, barrack, bullock, cassock, derrick, haddock, etc. RULE: Drop k. Ex.: Bannoc, barrac, bulloc, cammoc, cassoc, charloc, derric, haddoc, hammoc, hassoc, hemloc, hilloc, hummoc, mammoc, matloc, paddoc, polloc, puttoc, ruddoc, rulloc, shamroc, tussoc, wedloc, bailiwic, etc. So also: Haversac, napsac, nicnac, ransac (where there is a secondary stress). Cassocked, hummocked, etc. become cassock, hummock, etc., like mimic, picnic, traffic, etc.

5. -e final, silent, after a single consonant preceded by a short vowel, stressed, or by any stressed vowel whose sound is not conventionally associated with the silent final -e. Ex.: Bade, have, give, live, forgive, misgive; are, gone, were. RULE: Drop e. Ex.: Bad, hav, giv, liv, forgiv, misgiv, etc.; ar, gon, wer.

The rule cannot be applied to the unstressed syllables -ace, -ade, -age, -ate, until it shall be determined what letter shall be adopted to indicate the weak or 'obscure' vowels in question.

See -ICE, -ILE, -INE, -ISE, -ITE, -IVE, below.

6. ea, pronounced as short e. Ex.: head, spread, stead, etc. RULE: Drop a. Ex.: Hed, spred, sted, tred, thret, helth, welth, dremt, ment, plesant, etc.

7. ea pronounced as ä (ah), before r. Ex.: Hearken, heart, hearten, hearth, hearty. RULE: Drop e. Ex.: Harken, hart, harten, harth, harty.

The -ear- in dearth, earth is not changed.

8. -ed or 'd pronounced -d. Ex.: Aimed, armed, burned, etc. RULE: Use simple d in all cases (reducing a double consonant, as mm in dimmed to m, dimd). Ex.: Aimd, armd, burnd, deemd, dimd, feld, fild, hangd, raibd, stird, veild, etc.

9. -ed or -t, the preceding single consonant being doubled before -ed (-pped, -ssed) and left single before -t (-pt, -st). Ex.: Dipped (dipt), dripped, pressed, missed, etc. RULE: Choose -t in all cases. Ex.: Dipt, dript, dropt, stept, stoxt, blest, prest, mist, blushd, washt, wisht, lockt, packt, etc.

10. -ence or -ense (Latin -ensa). Ex.: Defense (or defence), etc. RULE: Choose -ense. Ex.: Defense, offense, pretense. Also license (Latin -entia).

11. -ette or -et. RULE: Choose -et. Ex.: Coquet, epaulet, etiquet, omelet, quartet, quintet, septet, sextet, etc.

12. -ew pronounced as long u (or ō in moon) after l or r, or ch. Ex.: Blew, chew, flew, slew, etc. RULE: Change to -u. Ex.: Blu, clu, flu, slu, bru, cru, dru, gru, scru, thru, chu, etc.

Inflections: (1) -ewed becomes -ued. Ex.: Brued, chued, scrued. (2) -ews becomes -ues. Ex.: Brues, chues, crues, scrues.

13. -ey, unstressed, pronounced like short final y. Ex.: Abbey, alley, attorney, barley, chimney, cockney, honey, money, monkey, etc. RULE: Drop e. Ex.: Abby, ally, attorney, barly, chimny, cockny, donky, gully, hackny, hony, jersy, jocky, jurny, kersy, kidny, lacky, lampry, linsy-woolsy, medly, mony, monky, motly, parly, parsy, pully, trolly, turky, vally, volly, whisky.

14. -ff final, pronounced f. Ex.: Bluff, buff, chaff, chuff, etc.; bailiff, caitiff, distaff, etc. RULE: Drop one f.

Ex.: Bluf, buf, chaf, chuf, clif, cuf, dof, duf, gaf, gruf, huf, luf, muf, ruf, snif, snuf, staf, stuf, stuf, tif, whif, etc.; bailif, caitif, distaf, mastif, midrif, plain-tif, pontif, sherif, tarif, etc. Retain off. Cf. ¶59.

Medial -ff- is retained, as in buffing, chaffing, etc. And so in coffing, troffing, ruffing, etc., for coughing, troughing, roughing, etc. See ¶15.

15. -gh pronounced f, in -augh, -aught, or ough. Ex.: Draught, laugh, laughter, chough, clough, cough, enough, etc. RULE: Change to -f (changing also au to a, and ou to o or u). Ex.: Draft, laf, lafter, chuf, cluf, cof, enuf, ruf, sluf, tuf, trof, etc.; and hence lasting, coffing, stuffing, ruffen, tuffen, ruffer, tuffer, etc.

16. -gh silent. (1) In -aught. Ex.: Aught, caught, daughter, etc. (2) In -ought pronounced like out. Ex.: Drought. RULE: Drop gh. Ex.: Aut, caut, dauter, distraut, fraut, hauty, slauter, taut, etc.; drout. Cf. ¶17.

17. -gh silent: (1) -ough or -ow (pronounced ou as in out). RULE: Choose -ow. Ex.: Plow. (2) -ough or -o (pronounced ō or ō). RULE: Choose -o. Ex.: Altho, tho, thoro, -boro (in place names), furlo. (3) -ough or -o (pronounced ō, as in moon). Ex.: Through, thro', thro. RULE: Choose thro, but advance it now to thru.

18. gn- pronounced n. Ex.: Gnarl, gnash, gnaf, gnaw, gneiss, etc. RULE: Drop g. Ex.: Narl, narld, narly, nash, nat, naw, neis, nome, nomic, nomon, nostic, etc. Cf. KN-, ¶28.

19. -gn in -eign pronounced like ein in vein, skein, seine, feint. Ex.: Deign, feign, reign. RULE: Drop g. Ex.: Dein, fein, rein. Foreign and sovereign, with -eign unstressed, have been simplified to foren and soveren.

20. h silent. See ph, rh, -rrh-.

21. -ice unstressed, pronounced -is. RULE: Spell -is. Ex.: Artifis, coppis, cornis, crevis, edifis, justis, notis, servis, etc.

22. -ile unstressed, pronounced -il. Ex.: Agile, futile, servile. RULE: Omit e. Ex.: Agil, futil, servil, etc. Retain -ile when the i is not pronounced short.

23. -ine unstressed, pronounced -in. Ex.: Determine, doctrine, engine, etc. RULE: Omit e. Ex.: Determin, doctrin, engin, examin, genuin, imagin, pristin, etc. Retain -ine when the i is not pronounced short.

24. -ise unstressed, pronounced -is. Ex.: Anise, mortise, etc. RULE: Omit e. Ex.: Anis, mortis, practis, premis, promis, treatis.

25. -ise or -ize (from Greek), suffix of verbs. RULE: Choose -ize. Ex.: Civilize, criticize, exorcize, legalize, organize, etc.

26. -ite unstressed, pronounced -it. Ex.: Apposite, definite, etc. RULE: Omit e. Ex.: Apposit, definit, infinit, opposit, preterit, requisit, etc. Retain -ite when the i is not pronounced short.

27. -ive unstressed, pronounced -iv. Ex.: Active, adjective, etc. RULE: Omit e. Ex.: Activ, adjectiv, detectiv, executiv, motiv, nativ, progressiv, etc.

28. kn- pronounced n. Ex.: Knack, knag, knap, knapsack, knave, knead, knee, etc. RULE: Drop k. Ex.: Nack, nag, nap, napsack, nave, nead, nee, neel, neeling, nel, nelt, nicnac, nife, nit, nitting, nob, nock, nocker, nocking, nop, noll, not, notting, nuckle, nurl, nurld, etc.

Keep k in kno (know) and knowledge (knowledge). See ¶43. See gn- and wr-.

29. -il or -l (-ill or -il). RULE: Choose -l. Ex.: Distil, fulfil, instil; like until, compel, impel, etc.

30. -il- or -l- (-ill- or -il-, -ull- or -ul-) before -ful or -ness. RULE: Choose -l. Ex.: Skilful, wilful, dulness, fulness.

31. -il final, after a short stressed vowel. Ex.: Bell, bill, doll, full, pull, null, etc. RULE: Drop one i. Ex.: Shal, bel, cel, del, dwel, el, fel, hel, sel, shel, smel, spel, swel, tel, wel, bil, chil, dil, dril, fl, fril, gil, gril, hil, kil, mil, pil, quil, ril, shril, sil, skil, spil, squil, stil, swil, thil, thril, til, wil, dol, bul, ful, pul, cul, dul, gul, hul, mul, nul, skul, etc. Also, of course, forms like distil, fulfil, instil, and derivatives like skilful, wilful, dulness, fulness, etc. See ¶59.

When the preceding vowel is long, retain the common spelling. Ex.: All, ball, call, fall, small, tall, etc.; boll, droll, poll, roll, toll, etc. The double -l does not, of course, in itself indicate a long vowel.

32. -mb with b silent. Ex.: Crumb, dumb, lamb, etc. RULE: Omit b. Ex.: Crum, dum, lam, lim, num, thum.

33. -mn with n silent. Ex.: Autumn, column, etc. RULE: Omit n. Ex.: Autum, colum, solem.

34. -nced, after a stressed vowel, pronounced like -nst. Ex.: Advanced, chanced, danced, etc. RULE: Change to -nst. Ex.: Advanst, chanst, danst, glanst, lanst, pranst, transt, enhanst, commenst, fenst, convinst, evinst, minst, winst, bounst, flounst, pounst, trounst, announst, denounst, enounst, pronounst, renounst, etc. Cf. ¶35.

35. -nced, after an unstressed vowel, pronounced like -nst. Ex.: Balanced, circumstanced, distanced, etc. RULE: Change to -nst. Ex.: Balanst, circumstanst, distanst, evidenst, experienst, influenst, instanst, etc.

36. oe, æ, or e, not final. Ex.: oesophagus, æsophagus, esophagus. RULE: Choose e. Ex.: Ecumenical, esophagus, phenix, subpena, etc.

37. -oe pronounced o. Ex.: Doe, floe, foe, hoe, etc. RULE: Drop e. Ex.: Do, flo, fo, ho, ro, slo, to, wo, etc.

Inflections: Retain -oed, -oes. Ex.: Hoed, hoes, toes, woes, etc.

38. -ou- pronounced like u in but. Ex.: Country, couple, cousin, double, foust; chough, clough, rough, tough. RULE: Drop o. Ex.: Cuntry, just, tuch, yung, yunker; chuf, cluf, ruf, tuf. See ¶15. But couple, cousin, double, trouble are left unchanged.

39. -ou- before r, pronounced like u in burn. Ex.: Adjourn, courage, courteous, courtesy, encourage, flourish, journal, etc. RULE: Drop o. Ex.: Adjurn, curteus, curtesy, jurnal, jurny, sojurn, tournament, turny. But courage, flourish, nourish, are left unchanged.

40. -ough. See ¶15. -ought. See ¶16.

41. -our or -or. RULE: Choose -or. Ex.: Ardor, candor, clamor, color, favor, flavor, honor, humor, labor, rumor, tumor, valor, vigor, etc.; also, arbor, harbor, neighbor, etc.

42. -ous unstressed, pronounced like -us unstressed. Ex.: Bilious, callous, devious, famous, glorious, etc. RULE: Change to -us. Ex.: Acrimonius, amfibius, anomalus, auriferus, bilius, bituminus, callus, commodius, coniferus, credulus, cutaneous, devius, enormus, evius, famus, felonius, frivolus, frugivorus, glorius, graminivorus, grievus, harmonius.

herbivorus, hideus, illustrius, imperius, industrius, infamius, invidius, jellus, joyus, luminus, malaris, multifarius, mischievus, odorus, parsimonius, plenteus, porus, ravenus, rebellus, resinus, ridiculus, rigor, serius, spontaneus, tedi, vapor, varius, vigor, villanus, voluminus, etc. Also many words in -ceous and -cious, and -uous, which now take the forms -ceus, -cius, -uus. Ex.: Cretaceus, farinaceus, rosaceus, etc.; audacious, fallacious, graciosus, etc.; arduous, impetuous, sinuous, strenuous, etc.

43. -ow, stressed or unstressed, pronounced like o. Ex.: Blow, bow, crow, flow, glow, grow, etc.; below, bestow, etc.; bellow, billow, fellow, furrow, etc. RULE: Change to -o. Ex.: Blo, bo, cro, flo, glo, gro, kno, lo, mo, ro, sho, slo, sno, so, sto, stro, thro, to, etc.; belo, besto, etc.; bello, billo, fello, furro, hallo, hollo, mello, pillo, sallo, willo, etc.

Infections: (1) -owed becomes -oed. Ex.: Croed, floed, gloed, moed, roed, soed, belloed, folloed, furroed, etc. (2) -ows becomes -oes. Ex.: Bloes, croes, floes, gloes, groes, moes, roes, soes, toes, belloes, felloes, halloes, etc. (3) -own remains.

44. ph pronounced f. Ex.: Phantasm, phantom, philosophy, etc. (a multitude of words). RULE: Change to f. Ex.: Fantasm, fantasmagoria, fantasy, fantom, farmacy, fenix, fesant, filology, philosophy, flem, flox, fosforus, fotograf, fotosfere, frase, fraseology, frenology, fysic, fysics, fysician, fysiology, etc.; alfabet, diafram, pamflet, autograf, paragraf, telegraf, bibliografy, biografy, fonetic, telephone; aferesis, atmosfere, blasfeme, cenotaf, chirografy, diafanus, dolfin, elefant, emfasis, emfatic, esofagus, geografy, grafic, hemisfere, hieroglyf, homofone, homograf, hyfen, mefitic, metamorfosis, morfia, morfology, nymf, orfan, parafrase, periphery, porfyr, profet, profetic, sarcofagus, sfere, sferic, sfinx, sofist, sophisticate, strofe, tyfoid, tyfus, etc.; also (ph not of Greek origin), lymf, lymfatic, triumf, trofy, etc.; calif, cifter, gofer, etc.

45. -rced pronounced like -rst. Ex.: Amerced, forced, pierced, etc. RULE: Change to -rst. Ex.: Amerst, forst, enforst, pierst, etc. See -NCED.

46. -re or -er. RULE: Choose -er. Ex.: Accouter, center, fiber, meter, miter, niter, saltmeter, sceptor, sepulcher, somber, specter, theater, etc.

47. rh- pronounced like r (h silent). Ex.: Rhapsody, rhetoric, rheum, rheumatism, rhinoceros, etc. RULE: Drop h.

Ex.: Rapsody, retoric, reum, reumatism, rinoceros, rizome, rododendrom, romboid, rombus, rubarb, rime, rythm, etc.

48. -rr or -r. RULE: Choose r. Ex.: Bur, pur; like cur, fur, etc.

49. -rrh- medial, pronounced like r (h silent). Ex.: Catarrhal, diarrhea, hemorrhage, etc. RULE: Change to -rr after a stressed vowel, to -r after an unstressed vowel. Ex.: Catarral, diarea, hemorage, etc.

50. s or z (in the root). RULE: Choose z. Ex.: Apprize, assize, comprize, enterprize, raze, surprize, teazel.

51. s medial, silent. Ex.: Aisle, isle, islet, island. RULE: Drop s. Ex.: Aile, ile, ilet, iland.

52. -some pronounced like -sum. Ex.: Adventuresome, blithesome, buxom, handsome, winsome, etc. RULE: Change to -sum. Ex.: Adventuresum, blithesum, burdensum, buxum (bucsum), cumber-sum, darksum, dolesum, frolicsum, fulsum, gamesum, gladsum, handsum, irksum, lightsum, loathsum, lonesum, longsum, meddlesum, mettlesum, noisum, quarrelsum, tiresum, toilsun, toothsum, troublesum, wearisum, winsum, etc.

53. -ss final in monosyllables, pronounced like s. Ex.: Bass, class, bless, press, etc. RULE: Drop one s. Ex.: Bas, bras, clas, cras, glas, gras, las, mas, pas, bles, ches, cres, dres, les, mes, pres, stres, tres, blis, his, kis, mis, bos, cros, dros, flos, gros, los, mos, tos, bus, fus, mus, pus, trus, etc.

The rule applies to final -ss in monosyllables, but not in words of two or more syllables ending in -ss after -e, especially those having the suffix -ess, -less, or -ness, where the single -s, after -e, would, amid conventional spellings, look doubtful—as if it were a plural ending (thus: Actres, needles, greatnes, etc.; congres, ogres, etc.). When the vowel before -s is not e, there is no ambiguity—atlas, bias, genus, opus, etc. Hence canvass, compass, cutlass, harass, trespass, windlass, become canvas, compas, cutlas, haras, trespass, windlas.

54. -ue silent after -g. RULE: Omit -ue. Ex.: Catalog, decalog, demagog, pedagog, prolog, colleg, leag, harang, tung.

55. -ue final, after l or r, pronounced like long u (or oo in moon). Ex.: Blue, clue, flue, glue, etc.; rue, true, etc.; accrue, construe, imbrue. RULE: Change to -u.

Ex.: Blu, clu, flu, glu, etc.; ru, tru, etc.; accru, constru, imbru. Inflections unchanged: Blued, blues, glued, etc. See ¶12.

This rule does not apply to -ue pronounced as a diphthong (u in use), as in cue, due, etc.

56. -ve after l or r. Ex.: Delve, shelve, twelve, etc. RULE: Omit -e. Ex.: Delv, shelv, twelv, selvs, carv, curv, nerv, serv, deserv, reserv, starv, etc.

57. wr-, with w silent. Ex.: Wrack, wraith, wrangle, wrap, wrath, etc. RULE: Drop w. Ex.: Rack,raith, rangle, rap, rath, reak, reath, reathe, reck, ren, rench, rest, restle, retch, retched, riggle, right, ring, rinkle, rist, rite, riter, rithe, riting, ritten, rong, roth, rought, rung, etc. But wr- may be kept where one wishes to avoid an apparent conflict with similar words, as in write, wright, wring, etc.

58. -zz final. Ex.: Buzz, fizz, frizz, sizz, whizz. RULE: Drop one z. Ex.: Buz, fiz, friz, siz, whiz. See ¶59.

59. Double consonant, final, namely, -bb, -dd, -ff, -gg, -ll, -nn, -rr, -ss, -tt, -zz. Ex.: Ebb, add, odd, cuff, egg, ell, bunn, err, burr, etc. RULE: Use a single consonant. Ex.: Eb, ad, od, cuf, eg, el, er, bur, whir, bas, bos, pres, net, set, buz, etc.

This is a general rule. See the fuller lists, under -ff, -ll, -ss, -zz. The double consonant remains, when medial, before a pronounced vowel in inflections, as ebbing, adding, egging, erring, netting, etc.

It was deemed expedient by the Board in some cases to restrict the rule to a limited number of the words in the class. But, they add, "Any one who chooses to extend the rule at once to all the words of a given class is of course free to do so."

"For some small classes and for isolated amendments, no rule is given. But . . . certain undoubted simplifications which do not fall under the general rules, but which have been approved by the Board . . . , may be used without hesitation. Such are: Anser, friend, mortgage, yoman, for answer, friend, mortgage, yeoman."

GOLD AND SILVER COINS AND THEIR VALUES

The intrinsic values of gold coins are given, the fixed price for fine gold being $20.67 per troy ounce. Silver coins, unless guaranteed by gold, are rated at their intrinsic value at the arbitrary price of 60 cents a troy ounce for fine silver.

*The Latin Monetary Union (Belgium, France, Greece, Italy, Switzerland) has nominally a double standard with the ratio of gold to silver fixed at 1 to 15½, but virtually it has the single gold standard because of the limiting of the silver coinage in 1873. All of these countries have coins of the same weight and fineness, but the "franc" and "centime" are called respectively "lira" and "centesimo" in Italy and "drachma" and "lepton" in Greece. This monetary system has also been adopted in whole or in part by Bulgaria, Finland, Roumania, Servia, Spain, Venezuela, etc.

1 English quarter.....	=8½ U. S. bu. (nearly).
	=17745.54 cubic inches.
	=10.2694 cubic feet.

The following are legal values of the bushel, in pounds, established by the United States Government: corn, 56; oats, 32; peas, 60; potatoes, 60; rye, 56; wheat, 60. Various State governments have established standards varying somewhat from these.

TONNAGE OF SHIPS

The register ton, or unit of internal capacity, is 100 cu. ft. (2.8317 cu. m.).

The displacement ton, approximately equal to the volume of a long ton of sea water, is 35 cu. ft. (.9911 cu. m.).

The shipping ton, or unit of volume for freight, is often reckoned at 40 cu. ft. (1.1327 cu. m.) for merchandise and 42 cu. ft. (1.1893 cu. m.) for timber.

TIME

60 seconds.....	=1 minute.	2 weeks.....	=1 fortnight.
60 minutes.....	=1 hour.	4 weeks.....	=1 month.
24 hours.....	=1 day.	12 calendar months.....	=1 year.
7 days.....	=1 week.

The length of the astronomical year is about 365½ days, or 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 46 seconds. As the common year is 365 days, it becomes necessary once in every four years to add a day to the year, making the leap year of 366 days.

Every year whose number is divisible by 4 without a remainder is a leap year, excepting the full centuries, which to be leap years must be divisible by 400 without a remainder; 1900, therefore, was not a leap year.

January, March, May, July, August, October, and December contain 31 days.

April, June, September, and November contain 30 days. February contains 28 days, except in leap years, when it contains 29 days.

ANGULAR MEASURE

60 seconds or 60''.....	=1 minute.	30 degrees.....	=1 sign, s.
60 minutes or 60'.....	=1 degree, °	12 signs, or 360 degrees.....	=1 great circle.

NUMBERS

12 units.....	=1 dozen.	12 gross.....	=1 great gross.
12 dozen.....	=1 gross.	20 units.....	=1 score.

PAPER

24 sheets.....	=1 quire.	20 quires.....	=1 ream.

10 hectograms.....	=1 kilogram.....	=1k.....
10 kilograms.....	=1 myriagram.....	=10k.....
10 myriagrams.....	=1 quintal.....	=100k.....
		=220.46 lbs. av.
		=1.968 cwt. of 112 lbs.
		=2204.6 lbs. av.
10 quintals.....	=1 millier or tonneau.....	=1000k.....
		=0.9842 long ton of 2240 lbs.
		=1.102 short tons of 2000 lbs.

METRIC SYSTEM (continued)

64.8 milligrams.....	= 1 grain.
453.59 grams.....	= 1 pound av.
1016.04 kilograms.....	= 1 long ton, or 2240 lbs. av.
907.18 kilograms.....	= 1 short ton, or 2000 lbs. av.

The kilogram is designed to be the exact weight in a vacuum of a cubic decimeter of distilled water at the temperature of 4° of the centigrade thermometer (39.2° Fahrenheit).

MEASURES OF LENGTH

	1 millimeter.....	=0m.001.....	= .0394 inch.
10 millimeters.....	=1 centimeter.....	=0m.01.....	= .3937 inch.
10 centimeters.....	=1 decimeter.....	=0m.1.....	=3.937 inches.

10 decameters.....	=1 hectometer.....	=100m.....	=328.08 feet.
			=3280.8 feet.
10 hectometers.....	=1 kilometer.....	=1000m.....	=1093.6 yards.
			=49.7 chains.
			=.62137 mile.
10 kilometers.....	=1 myriameter.....	=10000m.....	=6.2137 miles.
25.4 millimeters.....			=1 inch.
3.048 decimeters.....			=1 foot.
9.144 decimeters.....			=1 yard.
1.6093 kilometers.....			=1 mile
			(80 chains).

The meter is designed to be the ten-millionth part of the quadrant of the Earth's meridian.

MEASURES OF SURFACE

Ordinary Measures.—The squares of the measures of length.

LAND MEASURES

100 centares.....	= 1 are = 100 square meters	{ = 1076.4 square feet.
100 ares.....	= 1 hectare.....	{ = 119.6 square yards.
		= 2.471 acres.

MEASURES OF VOLUME

Ordinary Measures.—The cube of the measures of length.

1 cubic meter.....	{ = 35.316 cubic feet.
	{ = 1.308 cubic yards.

MEASURES FOR WOOD

1 centistere.....	= 0.01 stere.....	= .353 cubic feet.
1 decistere.....	= 0.1 stere.....	= 3.53 cubic feet.
1 stere.....	= 1 cubic meter.....	{ = 35.316 cubic feet.
		{ = .2759 cord.
1 decastere.....	= 10 steres.....	= 13.08 cubic yards.

DRY AND LIQUID MEASURE

1 milliliter.....	= 0.001.....	= 0.27 fluid dram.
10 milliliters = 1 centiliter.....	= 0.01.....	= 0.338 fluid oz.
10 centiliters = 1 deciliter.....	= 0.1.....	= 0.10567 quart, liq. meas.

ANTIDOTES TO COMMON POISONS

CALL physician at once. Give the antidote in good quantity. Except in case of corrosive acids or alkalis, cause vomiting by tickling throat or by an emetic. Good emetics are: mustard (2 to 4 teaspoonfuls in cup of warm water); salt (2 or more teaspoonfuls in cup of water); tepid water freely; zinc sulphate (20 to 30 grains in a little water). Demulcents: olive oil, gelatin, glycerin, honey, starch, white of egg.

Acids, Corrosive (as, hydrochloric or muriatic, nitric, sulphuric or oil of vitriol, etc., when strong). Magnesia, white of egg, soap; demulcents; stimulants.

Alcohol. Heat extremities; cool head; artificial respiration.

Alkalis (as ammonia, lye, lime, etc.). Dilute acids, such as lemon juice or vinegar; milk; oil; stimulants.

Antimony compounds. Tannin; demulcents.

Arsenic compounds (e. g., Paris green). Ferric hydroxide with magnesia (drug store); demulcents; stimulants.

Carbolic acid (phenol) and creosote. Epsom salts; demulcents; stimulants.

Do not give fats or oils.

Copper compounds. Artificial heat; milk; white of egg; stimulants. Do not give fats or oils.

Corrosive sublimate. Artificial heat; white of egg; stimulants. Do not give salt.

Cyanides. Same as for PRUSSIC ACID.

Food (as spoiled fish, poisonous mushrooms, etc.). Emetics; castor oil; stimulants; artificial heat.

Gas, Ether, Chloroform. Fresh air; artificial respiration; stimulants.

Lead compounds. Same as for CARBOLIC ACID.

Opium (morphine, laudanum). Emetics; stimulants; coffee; artificial respiration; keep patient awake.

Oxalic acid. Lime, magnesia; demulcents; stimulants.

Phosphorus (matches). Emetics; Epsom salts. Do not give fats or oils.

Prussic acid, or Hydrocyanic acid. Ferrous sulphate; artificial respiration; stimulants.

Rat poison usually contains ARSENIC OR PHOSPHOROUS.

Strychnine, Nicotine, etc. Tannin, charcoal, white of egg.

Tin compounds. Tannin, white of egg, soap, mucilage, milk.

Unknown poisons. Chalk and water, eggs beaten with milk, whisky.

STANDARD TIME

In 1883, the railroads of the United States and Canada adopted the present system of standard time. It comprises five standards: Intercolonial (color, as in maps, brown); Eastern (red); Central (blue); Mountain (green); and Pacific (yellow). These are, respectively, the mean local times of the 60th, 75th, 90th, 105th, and 120th meridians west of Greenwich, and differ by intervals of one hour. Changes from one standard to another are made at prominent stations, as at Detroit, Toledo, Columbus, and Atlanta, Georgia, from eastern to central time and vice versa. Intercolonial time is used by Halifax and a few adjacent cities, but the railroads extend the eastern standard to that region, leaving only four kinds of railroad time.

RELATIVE TIME OF CITIES

When it is noon at Washington, D. C., it is, by solar time, 12.12 P. M. at New York; 12.24 P. M. at Boston; 12.54 P. M. at Halifax; 4.31 P. M. at Lisbon; 5.08 P. M. at London; 5.17 P. M. at Paris; 5.58 P. M. at Rome; 6.02 P. M. at Berlin; 7.13 P. M. at Cairo; 10.00 P. M. at Bombay; 11.01 P. M. at Calcutta; 12.41 A. M. at Canton; 12.46 A. M. at Hongkong; 1.12 A. M. at Manila; 2.26 A. M. at Yokohama; 2.48 A. M. at Melbourne; 6.37 A. M. at Honolulu; 8.58 A. M. at San Francisco; 9.40 A. M. at Salt Lake City; 10.08 A. M. at Denver; 10.44 A. M. at Omaha; 11.07 A. M. at St. Louis; 11.17 A. M. at Chicago; 11.30 A. M. at Cincinnati; 11.38 A. M. at Havana; 11.41 A. M. at Cleveland; 11.50 A. M. at Panama; 11.52 A. M. at Buffalo.

NOTE.—Whenever any day set apart as a legal holiday falls on a Sunday the day next succeeding shall be a holiday.

📅 In S. C., Thursday of Fair week is also a legal holiday. 📅 In Wyo., "Publicity Day" (first observed Oct. 14, 1911), for the purpose of making known the resources of the State, is determined by proclamation. ¹In Kansas, for purposes of negotiable instrument act only. ²In certain cities and towns. ³School holiday only. ⁴School holiday only in N. Mex. ARBOR DAY.—In Wyo., where it is a legal holiday, and in Cal., Ill., Me., Md., Mass., a day is appointed by proclamation. ⁵Confederate Memorial, or Decoration, Day. ⁶In all penal and reformatory institutions. ⁷Chicago, Springfield, and East St. Louis only. ⁸Not statutory in some States.

POSTAL RATES AND REGULATIONS

DOMESTIC POSTAGE

Including Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines, Guam, Tutuila, the Canal Zone.

 See Notes at foot of page.

First-class Matter. 1. First-class proper: Written matter, sealed or unsealed,¹² and all matter sealed or otherwise closed against inspection,³ 2 cents an ounce or fraction thereof. Must be prepaid, except letters from U. S. soldiers, sailors, or marines. Weight limit same as for parcel post. 2. Postal cards, 1 cent each. 3. Drop letters, where there is no free delivery, 1 cent an ounce or fraction thereof.

Unmailable. Poisons, explosives, inflammables, live animals (except bees), substances that are ill-smelling or liable to injure postal employees, immoral matter, and all matter not complying with above regulations as to weight, prepayment, etc., or insufficiently addressed.

Immediate delivery (within certain hours and distances) is secured for any piece of mail matter at any office by attaching a special 10-cent stamp or ten cents' worth of ordinary stamps, with the words "Special Delivery" written on the envelope, in addition to regular postage.

Registration of any letter or package costs 10 cents in addition to regular postage. For insurance, see PARCEL POST.

Forwarding. First-class matter is forwarded and returned without extra charge; on that of other classes postage must be paid for each journey.

Withdrawing Mail. Matter once mailed can be withdrawn if sender can prove identity.

Mixed Classes. Matter of different classes in the same package goes at the highest rate chargeable for any portion.

Permissible Additions to Original Matter. The words "personal" or "to be called for," and other directions as to delivery, and requests for forwarding or return upon prepayment of new postage, are permissible as part of the address on second-, third-, or fourth-class matter.

Books of Postage Stamps. One and two cent postage stamps bound in book form are on sale at post offices at a rate of 1 cent per book over the postage value.

International Reply-Coupons are sold at 6 cents each, for use in sending abroad for return postage. Reply-coupons issued by other countries are redeemable at United States post offices in postage stamps for 5 cents each.

Postal Money Orders. Money can be sent without danger of loss at low rates to all parts of the United States and its possessions as well as to foreign countries by means of Postal Money Orders.

¹²Writing, such as the name and address of sender, simple dedication in a book, etc., is allowed on third- and fourth-class matter.

²MS. accompanied by printed proof may be sent third-class, but ordinary typewritten matter, and also that printed on a mimeograph, hectograph, etc. (unless 20 or more copies are sent), belong to first-class.

³Certain proprietary articles, as pills, tobacco, etc., are allowed to go sealed at fourth-class rates.

⁴Photographs and seeds, bulbs, roots, etc., may be sent at third-class rates.

FOREIGN POSTAGE

Letters for the Bahamas, Canada, Cuba, Barbadoes, British Guiana, British Honduras, Dominican Republic, Dutch West Indies, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Leeward Islands, Mexico, Newfoundland, New Zealand, Panama, Trinidad (including Tobago), and Windward Isls. (including Grenada, the Grenadines, St. Lucia, and St. Vincent), same as domestic (2 cents for each ounce or fraction of an ounce).

1. Sealed packages evidently not letters are unmailable.

2. For Canada and Mexico, commercial papers and trade samples take Postal Union rates (see below).

3. Merchandise not classed as samples may be sent to Mexico by parcel post.

4. Seeds and plants for Canada must pay 1 cent an ounce.

Other Countries. Postal Union rates hold, with unimportant exceptions, and even in these cases the mail will be transmitted and any additional charge collected.

Postal Union Rates.

1. Letters, 5 cents for the first ounce or fraction thereof; 3 cents for each additional ounce or fraction thereof.

2. Post cards, 2 cents each.

3. Printed matter (including periodicals), 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof.

4. Commercial or business papers, 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof, with a minimum charge of 5 cents.

5. Samples of merchandise, 1 cent for each 2 ounces or fraction thereof, with a minimum of 2 cents.

Unmailable. Same as domestic, and also, to certain countries, such articles as coins, jewelry, tobacco, etc., about which the local postmaster should be consulted. Articles liable to duty will generally be transmitted and charges collected at destination.

Registration costs 10 cents additional, as for domestic mail.

Prepayment. Ordinary letters for any foreign country (except Canada, Mexico, or the City of Shanghai, China) will be forwarded even if no postage is paid. All other matter must be prepaid at least partially.

PARCEL POST

Domestic Parcel Post. Comprises all fourth-class matter. Parcels must not exceed 70 pounds in weight for delivery within the 1st, 2d, or 3rd zones, or 50 pounds for delivery within any of the other zones; they must not be of greater size than 84 inches in combined length and girth. See SMALL PARCELS, below. Postage must be fully prepaid.

Units of Area. For Parcel Post purposes the United States is divided into units of area 30 (geographical) minutes on a side. These units are thus nearly rectangular, measuring about 34½ miles north and south, and from 23 to 30 miles (depending upon the latitude) east and west.

Zones. Each of these units of area has corresponding to it 7 or 8 zones. The first zone is composed of the unit of area in question and the 8 surrounding and contiguous units. The second zone includes all units of area outside the first zone and lying wholly or partly within a radius of approximately 150 miles from the center of the given unit of area. The third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh zones are similarly determined, the radii being respectively 300, 600, 1000, 1400, and 1800 miles. The eighth zone includes units of area outside the seventh zone.

Small Parcels. Parcels weighing 4 ounces or less are available at the rate of one cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce, regardless of distance. Books weighing 8 ounces or less are available at the rate of 1 cent for 2 ounces.

Zone Rates. Parcels over 4 ounces in weight and not for local delivery are charged according to the zone (in relation to the mailing point) in which the place of delivery lies. The schedule of rates is as follows:

Weight	Local delivery	1st and 2d zones	3d zone	4th zone	5th zone	6th zone	7th zone	8th zone
1 pound	$0.05	$0.05	$0.06	$0.07	$0.08	$0.09	$0.11	$0.12

Insurance. Parcels must bear the name and address of the sender, and may be insured against loss in amounts equivalent to their actual value (not to exceed $100.) on payment of a fee of from 3 cents to 25 cents in stamps, to be affixed.

C. O. D. The sender of a mailable parcel on which the postage is fully prepaid may have the price of the article and the charges thereon collected from the addressee on payment of a fee of 10 cents if the amount to be collected does not exceed $50, or 25 cents if not over $100. Such parcels are insured against loss, without additional charge, not to exceed $50 and $100. C. O. D. parcels will be accepted for mailing only at a money-order office and when addressed to a money-order office.

International Parcel Post. In operation with most foreign countries. The limits of weight vary; inquire of postmaster. Parcels must not exceed 3½ feet in length, or 6 feet in combined length and girth (few exceptions). The rate of postage is 12 cents a pound or fraction of a pound. Postage must be fully prepaid

*55 lbs., $0.32; 60 lbs., $0.35; 65 lbs., $0.37; 70 lbs., $0.40.

BRIEF BUSINESS LAW

Ignorance of the law excuses no one.

Promissory notes, checks, drafts, etc. The maker of a note that is lost or stolen or accidentally destroyed is not released from payment if the amount and consideration can be proved.

Notes bear interest only when so stated.

Demand notes are payable on presentation, without grace, and bear interest only after a demand has been made, unless otherwise expressed in the note. An indorser on a demand note is held only for a limited time, differing in different States.

A joint note is one signed by two or more persons who are each liable for the whole amount.

No grace is allowed in the majority of States on time notes (i. e., promissory notes payable at a fixed or determined future time) after the time for payment expires. If a note is not paid when due, the indorser, if any, must be legally notified to be held.

A note, check, or the like, to be negotiable must be made payable either to bearer or to the order of some person named. When payable to order it must, in order to be transferred, or negotiated, be properly indorsed by the person to whose order it is made payable. If the indorser wishes to avoid responsibility he can indorse "without recourse."

An indorsee has a right of action against all (except indorsers without recourse) whose names were on the check, note, or the like when he received it.

An indorser of a note is exempt from liability if not served (as by mailing of the notice) with notice of its dishonor within twenty-four hours of its nonpayment. If the letter containing the protest for nonpayment be put into the post-office properly sealed and stamped, any miscarriage does not affect the rights or liabilities of the party to whom notice is to be given.

Notice of protest of a check, draft, etc., may generally be sent either to the place of business or residence of the party notified.

Checks or drafts, or promissory notes should be presented, without unreasonable delay, during business hours, but in this country in the case of drafts or notes not payable at a bank the time extends through the day and evening.

Notes falling due on Sunday, or on a legal holiday, must be paid the day following, as a rule.

A note made on a Sunday is void; also one postdated. A note may be dated back at pleasure.

Altering a note in any manner, by the holder, makes it void.

In general, a note or other contract made by a minor is voidable.

A receipt for money is not legally conclusive that the money has been paid.

An agreement without consideration is void.

A consideration that is immoral or otherwise against public policy is void.

"Value received" is usually written in a note, and should be, but it is not generally necessary. If not written, it may be presumed by the law or may be shown by proof.

The maker of an "accommodation" bill or note (one for which he received no consideration), having lent his name or credit, is not bound to the person accommodated, but is bound to all other parties precisely as if there had been a consideration.

Contracts. In general, contracts made on Sunday cannot be enforced.

Signatures made with a lead pencil are good in law.

A contract made with a lunatic or drunken person is void.

Fraud vitiates any contract based upon it.

A contract conveying a freehold estate in land must generally be under seal.

Partnerships. The acts of one partner bind the rest within the scope of the partnership.

Each individual in a partnership is responsible for the whole amount of the debts of the firm, except in cases of a special partnership. The word "limited," in connection with a partnership firm name, indicates that a limitation of liability is fixed for some, but not all, of the members. In case of a "limited" incorporated company the liability of all members is limited.

Principals are responsible for the acts of their agents within the scope of their agency.

An infant (or minor) is liable for his torts, generally.

POINTS OF CONSTITUTIONAL LAW

Congress shall assemble at least once in every year.

A State has no jurisdiction outside of its own boundaries.

By the Constitution every citizen is guaranteed a speedy trial by jury.

The powers not delegated to the United States, nor prohibited to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State.

Congress cannot pass an ex post facto law, i. e., a law to punish a person for an act committed by him before the passing of the law.

A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, and found in another State, must, on due demand of the executive, be delivered to the State having jurisdiction.

All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments.

Treaties with foreign powers are made by the President and ratified by the Senate.

The Vice President, who ex officio presides over the Senate, has no vote in that body except in case of a tie ballot.

If the President holds a bill longer than ten days while Congress is in session it becomes a law without his signature.

An act of Congress cannot become a law over the President's veto except on a two-thirds majority of each house.

The President, Vice President, and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment; the Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

An officer of the United States Government is not permitted to accept any title of nobility or order of honor, except with the permission of Congress.

Amendments to the Constitution of the United States require a two-thirds vote of each House of Congress, and must be ratified by the legislatures of, or by conventions in, at least three-fourths of the States.

The President of the United States must be 35 years of age; a Senator, 30; a Representative, 25; the President must have been a resident of the United States fourteen years; a Senator, 9; a Representative, 7.

A naturalized citizen is not eligible to the office of President of the United States. A male child born in a foreign land to American parents is equally eligible to be President with one born on American soil.

The United States shall guarantee to every State a Republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion, and, on application of the legislature or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

Congress shall make no laws abridging the freedom of speech or of the press.

The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Congress has power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

PARLIAMENTARY RULES FOR PUBLIC MEETINGS

Introductory. Every deliberative assembly, whether occasional or under permanent organization, gathers to agree upon some course of action. The purposes of such an assembly can be effected only by ascertaining the "sense", or will, of the meeting. To do this, it is necessary that the assembly be properly constituted and that it conduct its proceedings according to certain rules and forms which are the result of experience and practice. Such rules and forms were first reduced to the system now existing by the British Parliament, and although their practice has been freely modified to fit other conditions, they are still called parliamentary rules.

A brief sketch like the present will not be looked to for detailed rules governing regular assemblies, such as conventions and legislatures, which, besides the general, have also their own special rules; but, for occasional and ordinary meetings, large or small, the order of procedure here given will suffice. In the meetings of permanent bodies, officers having been chosen, and a constitution and by-laws adopted, at preliminary meetings, a regular procedure of business is followed according to the rules of the body, such procedure being announced in its proper order at each meeting by the president.

Organization. In the case of permanent bodies, each decides upon its own members; members of a public meeting are those who respond to its call. The first necessity being organization, a meeting must be opened by being requested to "Come to order,"* by some one of those who have issued the call, or one recognized as identified with the occasion. He then nominates, or asks the meeting to nominate, a candidate or candidates for presiding officer, and puts to vote the names in order of their naming, unless the first one is chosen. The presiding officer is usually called the Chairman, or, in permanent bodies, the President. The title Moderator is also sometimes used, as in religious assemblies, etc.

Being chosen, the presiding officer takes the chair, with brief thanks for the honor, and guides a similar election of a Secretary (or Clerk), and of a Treasurer, if needed. He then calls on the Secretary or some one familiar with the matter to read the call or state the object of the meeting, and asks, "In view of this, what is your pleasure?" This usually results in the offering and seconding of a resolution or motion expressive of action desired by one or more, and the matter is open for discussion. (For further procedure see BUSINESS, below.)

Presiding Officer. It is the duty of the presiding officer to call the meeting to order (if not already done); to direct and conduct the meeting; if it is an adjourned or a successive meeting, first to have the Secretary read the minutes (records) of the previous meeting for approval (or amendment and approval); to keep order; to receive, present, and keep clearly in mind and in view of the meeting every motion and each amendment, not allowing debate to wander from the question; as soon as a motion is made and seconded to announce distinctly the question, and when a vote is taken to announce the result and also what question, if any, is then pending; to decide points of order; to accept and put to vote appeals from his own decisions; while he has the right, not often to exercise it, of joining in debate, asking some member meanwhile to take the chair; to assist any member who ignorantly makes an improper motion, by politely suggesting the proper one; to act at all times with quiet, courteous, but firm decision. He must sign any issued expression of the assembly's action, and conduct himself throughout as the chief agent in learning and formulating the will of the meeting. While in the chair he may not join in debate, except to give information, decide points of order, etc. He may vote when voting is by ballot, but the only other vote allowed him is in case of a tie vote, when he may by a "casting vote" give his judgment and decide the question. When a member rises to speak, he should first say, "Mr. Chairman" (or President, etc.), and the Chairman should then recognize him (by name, if possible) in reply,—“Mr. A.” The speech of any member should be addressed to the Chair, and not directly to the assembly, and a member should not be interrupted by the presiding officer, so long as he is in order. The Chair (Chairman, or presiding officer) should always be spoken of in the third person, whether by himself or by any other person; as, “The Chair has decided,” etc., never “I (or you) have decided,” etc.; nor should one say, “Mr. Chairman, I move you that,” etc., but simply, “Mr. Chairman, I move that,” etc. Any motion which concerns the presiding officer personally must be put to vote by the Secretary.

*The words given here and subsequently within quotation marks are such as are proper and common, but they are not the only forms permissible.

Secretary (or Clerk). It is the Secretary's duty to keep a temporary record of the meeting for current information; to read aloud whatever the assembly or the presiding officer requests; to reduce to writing and read aloud any motion or amendment so demanded; if committees are appointed, to notify the presiding officer of their members, and to supply them with whatever documents the meeting has committed to their consideration; to make final records, or “minutes” (see MISCELLANEOUS, below) of every action or vote taken by the meeting, and either before final adjournment or at a succeeding meeting read them aloud for approval or amendment; and to keep safely all papers that have been a part of the proceedings. The Secretary may join in discussion or vote, but not to the detriment of his duties as Secretary. In the absence of the presiding officer (no vice president being present), it becomes the Secretary's duty to call the meeting to order at the appointed time, and to preside until the election of a Chairman (or other presiding officer) pro tem (temporary Chairman, etc.), which should be done at once. If the regular Secretary is absent, another is appointed Secretary pro tem.

Treasurer. A Treasurer (if needed) commonly acts simply as banker, holding the funds received by him, and paying them out on the order of the society (or other body) signed by the Secretary, taking care always to get a receipt for each payment, and keeping a careful record of all receipts and expenditures. He must make such reports as are required, an annual report, at least, being required in the case of permanent societies. (For form of report, see MISCELLANEOUS, below.)

Business. In general, any proposition for action, even a resolution, must be in the form of a motion: as, “I move the following Resolution.” Every motion (except as noted below) must be seconded by another member, before it can be laid before the meeting. Then the presiding officer says: “It is moved and seconded that,” (stating the motion clearly), and adding: “Are there any remarks?” or, “The question is on the adoption of the resolution; what is your pleasure?” etc. Thereupon “the question,” as it has now become, is open for debate, amendment, and vote. Certain motions do not have to be seconded, namely: A call for the orders of the day; a question of order (not an appeal), or an objection to the consideration of a question; and many matters of mere routine are not seconded, or even put in the form of a motion. The experienced presiding officer can often expedite business, when purely routine, by not waiting for a motion or even taking a vote. For example, when the minutes of a meeting are read, he may say: “If there are no objections (or amendments) the minutes will stand as read,”—adding, after a slight pause, “They so stand.” He can, however, proceed thus only so long as there is no objection. See MOTIONS, DISCUSSION, below.

Motions. Every motion, and every amendment, except the very simplest, should be written. Amendments to a motion that is before the meeting may be by striking out words, or inserting words, or both; every amendment is debatable if the original motion is; and an amendment to an amendment is allowable,—but no further amendments. These connected motions must of course be acted on in reverse order, since each one changes the form of the one preceding. An amendment may be accepted by the mover of the motion, with consent of the meeting, but not without. If no objection is offered, consent may be assumed. A mover of a motion may withdraw it entirely. When the mover modifies his motion, the seconder may then withdraw his second, if he choose. See DISCUSSION, below.

There are some motions, not directly concerned with the merits of a question but with indirect ways of checking or defeating it, which are privileged to intervene in its discussion. In naming them, these letterings will signify: a, amendable; d, debatable; na, not amendable; nd, not debatable. In their order of rank, they are: 1. Shall this question be considered? nd, na:—a motion which must be put, if at all, before debate, but which is rarely known in public meetings, since they are usually called to consider the very question at issue. 2. To lay on the table, nd, na; a way of putting the question aside until called up by a majority vote. 3. To commit to a committee, d, a; sometimes advisable when a meeting feels the need of more careful inquiry before action. 4. To postpone to a specified time, d, a. 5. To postpone indefinitely, d, na; which is practical defeat. 6. To demand the previous question ($\frac{1}{3}$ vote—see VOTING, below), nd, na; an awkward expression, meaning to stop debate and call for a vote. It is serviceable when discussion has gone far enough or too far; but in public meetings is rarely heard in form, being practically put and voted by calls of "Question! Question!" when the debaters, seeing the feeling of many, subside, and the Chair puts the question—be it an amendment to an amendment, an amendment, or an original motion. 7. To amend, d, a; the motion most often offered, but which may be shut off by any of the foregoing.

There are also some motions privileged before any of these, such as concern the assembly rather than any question. These may intervene at any time: 1. To adjourn, nd, na; 2. To fix the time to which adjournment shall be, d, a (not debatable if made when another question is before the assembly); 3. To take a recess, d, a; 4. Questions of privilege ((a) as to the meeting, (b) as to the mover) take priority over all others (except as to adjournment) until acted upon. As such a question may interrupt a member's speech, it is the Chairman's duty, after its statement, to decide (subject to appeal) whether the matter is one of privilege, or not.

Reconsideration. A motion to reconsider a vote taken can be made only by one who voted with the majority in the matter; its motive should be, either correction of error or willingness to further consider by reason of new light. But it is not allowable after action has been taken under the vote in question, as by commitment to a committee, or when involving an affirmative vote to adjourn, to lay on the table, or any such radical action. It is debatable when the question to be reconsidered was so.

Rescinding. When it is too late for reconsideration, a motion may be made to rescind a former action, d, a; a motion that stands as a new proposition, even though it open up afresh the original matter.

Discussion. When a motion is debatable any member may arise, address the Chair, and on being recognized address the meeting through the Chair. If several arise at once it is the duty of the presiding officer to recognize one, and to maintain order. If any member violate the rules of courtesy, or if any undue procedure is in progress, any one may address the Chair: "Mr. Chairman (or President, etc.), I arise to a point of order"; and it is the duty of the presiding officer to interrupt the proceedings, hear and decide upon the point of order, and, if his decision is appealed from, put it to vote to the meeting (See VOTING, below). Ordinarily, no member should speak more than twice, unless called upon, or to give some detail of information, and in the absence of rules the length of speeches is likely to be regulated by the temper of the audience.

Any Decision of the Chair may be appealed from by a member, who says: "I appeal from the decision, etc." If such an appeal is seconded, the presiding officer again states his decision (with reasons, if he desires), saying that it has been appealed from, and then puts the question thus: "Shall the decision of the Chair be sustained" (or the like).

Voting. The presiding officer should be certain that a question is understood by the assembly before it is "put." After stating the question on a motion that can be debated or amended, he asks: "Are there any remarks?"—"Are there any further remarks?" If no one then rises, he once more states the question and "puts" it by saying: "All in favor of this motion will say aye; those opposed will say no"; or, "Those in favor of the motion will raise the right hand;—those opposed will manifest it by the same sign," etc. If the result be doubtful, any member may demand or the Chair may call for a rising vote; or, in a regular organization the roll may be called by the Secretary, and the individual Ayes and Noes (or Yeas and Nays) be thus ascertained. In either case, the presiding officer decides (unless tellers have been appointed) and announces, "The motion is carried," or "lost."

All questions are decided, affirmatively or negatively, by a majority vote, except the following,—of which, however, only the last three are likely to arise in any ordinary public meeting: To amend or suspend the rules; to make a special order; to take up a question out of its proper order; to object to the consideration of a question; to extend the limits of debate; to close or limit debate; the previous question. All of these require a two-thirds vote for adoption, since they impose limitation upon the meeting itself, which a mere majority should not be able to do.

Miscellaneous. 1. Call for a Meeting. The undersigned invite all persons interested in the formation of a Public Library Association in the village of Jackson to meet at Steele's Hall on Wednesday, Sept. 3rd, at 7.30 p. m.

2. Committee to draft Resolutions. To appoint a committee to draft resolutions or the like, a member having addressed the Chair and been recognized, says: "I move that a committee be appointed to draft resolutions expressing the sense of this meeting on the question of—." This motion is put to vote in the usual way, and if carried, the Chair asks: "Of how many shall the committee consist?" If more than one number is suggested, a vote on this question is taken. The presiding officer then asks: "How shall the committee be appointed?" The committee may be appointed (named) by the Chair, or may be nominated by the Chair or the members of the assembly, and the assembly vote on their appointment, the presiding officer putting the question: "As many as are in favor of these gentlemen constituting the committee will say aye." When the committee is appointed it should retire (unless the report is to be presented at a subsequent meeting) and agree upon a report, which should be written out. Upon its return the chairman (first one named on committee) as soon as he gets the floor, says: "The committee appointed to draft resolutions is prepared to report," whereupon the presiding officer says: "The report of the committee will now be heard." The report is then read by the chairman of the committee and handed to the presiding officer, when the committee is dissolved without any action of the assembly. A member (sometimes the chairman of the committee) then moves the "acceptance" of the report, "that the resolutions be accepted," or the like. Such a question can be debated, and the resolutions modified if desired.

3. Minutes (Records). The Secretary (Clerk) keeps a record of the proceedings of the meeting, which in the case of an occasional or mass meeting consists of little more than notes of each resolution or motion adopted (with as much of the debate as possible, if for publication). In permanent bodies, boards of managers, trustees, etc., the minutes of each meeting consist of a record of what was done, rather than of what was said, and they should be preserved by being copied in a record book. The minutes should contain the following essentials, briefly stated: (a) The kind of meeting (i. e., "regular," "special," "adjourned," etc.); (b) Name of the assembly; date and place of meeting; (c) The fact of the presence of the regular Chairman and Secretary, or in their absence, the names of their substitutes. (d) The fact that the minutes of the previous meeting were approved; (e) The business transacted at the meeting; (f) Adjournment. When the minutes were not read at the last meeting, such fact is noted thus: "The reading of the minutes was dispensed with." Under no circumstances is it allowable for the Secretary to insert comments of his own in the record. At the end of an occasional or mass meeting and before an adjournment sine die (without naming a day for the next meeting), it is customary to read the minutes of the meeting for approval. When the meetings are regular and not separated by too great a time, the minutes of one meeting are read at the next, and after correction (if any) should be adopted. If after such action, any error be detected later, the minutes should be again corrected regardless of the time elapsed, by a simple vote "to amend the minutes." The minutes and official documents are in the custody of the Secretary, but they are open to the inspection of every member.

4. Treasurer's Report. The undersigned, Treasurer of the ——— Society begs leave to submit the following annual report: (Give statement of receipts and expenditures, and balance on hand). Such a report should be audited by a committee of one or more, who examine the books and vouchers (receipts) stating that they have done so, that they find them correct, and that the amount on hand is so much, whereupon the Treasurer is freed from all responsibility to that date.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America,

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our People, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their acts of pretended Legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from Punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Government:

For suspending our own Legislature, and declaring themselves invested with Power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to compleat the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free People.

Nor have We been wanting in attention to our Brittish brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the Protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.
